The World Turmoil.
England Denounces France.
Attack on Short Selling.
The Starving Railroads.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE NEW WEEK finds Europe, as usual, in a turmoil of accusations, recriminations and counter-propositions about the war debts. This country, heaven knows, has done what it could to prevent financial collapse of Germany and Austria, with world-wide trouble to follow.

We have voluntarily given up all payments from Germany, France, England, Italy, amounting to hundreds of millions in a year. And we have, very likely, given up payments of our war debt forever. When you let your debtor stop payment for one year, he will find a way to postpone paying for other years.

WHAT PRESIDENT Von Hindenburg calls our "magnanimous gesture" is otherwise described by others in Europe, that do not love us, to put it mildly.

The London Star prints a cartoon showing Uncle Sam rescuing Germany from the "bankrupt sea," and saying, in what England conceives to be the American language, "Nix on the heroics, he owes me money."

GERMANY AND all Europe do owe money to America, many billions of dollars foolishly lent under the urging of financiers, anxious for their "rake-off," and regardless of ultimate loss.

Mr. Hoover's moratorium suggestion was not planned merely to save our own loans by preventing international bankruptcy, but to help the world get back to business and prosperity.

FRENCH RELUCTANCE to adopt the Hoover suggestion is savagely denounced in England at a meeting of all three parties, MacDonald speaking for the Labor Party in power, Lloyd George for the Liberals and Baldwin for the Tories.

MacDonald accuses France of risking war for all nations, ignoring the possibility of "the inevitable destruction of another war," while posing "as a people of special honor."

Lloyd George, more blunt, refers to France as "a country that would keep Germany to her promises, while having broken its own promises."

Those that know the far-sighted wisdom of French statesmen will not believe that France seriously meditates war, knowing that in another struggle with Germany she would have to rely entirely upon her own resources, and those of unimportant subsidized allies, whose strength would vanish with a cessation of subsidies.

A FRENCH WAR with Germany now would undoubtedly mean Italy eagerly on the side of Germany, Britain in a hostile neutral mood. And needless to say, with no Woodrow Wilson in the White House, there would be no sending of billions of dollars or millions of men from here. Once, not twice, would be the American reply.

COAL OIL JOHNNY, who used to bathe in champagne and hire an entire Fifth avenue omnibus, with its two horses to carry him alone, would rub his eyes if he could see the oil business as it is today.

Big companies, buying in Kansas, refuse to pay more than 10 to 22 cents a barrel for crude oil and 22,000 wells have shut down to wait for better times.

There is so much oil that no one knows what to do with it. Leading oil companies, driven by their own foolishness and coerced by the antiquated Sherman act, have driven competition in retailing to the point of insanity. That, plus price-cutting, is wasting the country's oil supply. The public will realize it some day when the pendulum swings and gasoline goes to 50 cents and higher.

By that time the Diesel engine may have made the gas engine a memory, like the horse and buggy. In which case, oil will go from 10 cents to $10 a barrel.

THE JOYOUS pastime of selling wheat short may be interrupted. President Hoover's recent remarks are taken to indicate that he means to discourage in some way the custom of marking down prices by short selling. The French, long ago, took effective action after a wheat corner that made bread impossibly dear for the poor.

One law did it, saying briefly that any one conspiring to control the cost of bread in France would spend the rest of his life in jail at hard labor.

THERE IS something about the words Travaux forces a perpetuite that Frenchmen do not like, and short selling was stopped.

Board of trade men say short sellers are necessary to prosperity, which is Wall street's opinion also. President Hoover may convince them that they are mistaken.

An interesting FACT that seems to outweigh several tons of THEORY is that for wheat grown on French soil, the French farmer gets a dollar and a half a bushel, while Kansas farmers get about 30 cents, at the farm.

THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission fixes the value of our railroads, not counting working capital, at 21 billions, 690 millions, 3 billions more than the estimate of 1920. The application for 15 per cent increase in rates will be based on the 21-billion valuation.

SINCE RAILROADS are as important to the nation, its industries and farmers, as elevators to a skyscraper building,

WARD OF COURT EMPLOYED IN SPEAKEASY

Boy Revealed as Seller of Rum After Raid is Made on North Side Establishment

A 14-year-old Juvenile Court ward was revealed in Morals Court today as a whisky seller in a North Side moonshine resort.

The lad was employed by Matthew Miksic, 37, alleged proprietor of a speakeasy at 1514 East Ohio street, who was arraigned before Magistrate James J. O'Connor, of Morals Court, charged with violating the Snyder act.

Miksic, who admitted that he sold liquor, was held for court. The boy was turned over to the Juvenile Court authorities.

The lad testified he was a ward of Juvenile Court and that he had sold whisky in Miksic's place.

Mrs. Mary Miksic, of 1011 East Ohio street, who said she was separated from her husband, testified her husband frequently left his place in charge of the boy.

Six male visitors arrested in a raid were fined $5 each with the alternative of five days in jail.

Records of the probation office of the Juvenile Court showed that the boy had been turned over to his aunt, Mrs. Miksic, in June, 1927. Favorable reports of his progress resulted in his being released from probation in December, 1927, after which he was not visited by court officers. He continued a ward of the court, it was said.

Bandit Gets Chair For Fatal Holdup

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—William C. Snipes, 23, formerly of Lancaster, S. C., today was sentenced to death in the electric chair for the murder of Edward Gamils, proprietor of Blue Spruce Inn on the Lincoln highway at Trevose, in a robbery last February.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Calvin S. Boyer in the Bucks County Court after he had refused Snipes a new trial. The court said that the evidence justified the death sentence.

U. S. Loses 9 Million Tax Claim on Dukes

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Two trusts aggregating $30,634,000, created by the late James B. Duke for his daughter, Doris Duke, today were held exempt from federal estate taxes by the Board of Tax Appeals.

The board overruled the commissioner of internal revenue, who included the trusts in Duke's gross estate and sought to collect a $9,040,000 deficiency tax. It allowed a deficiency of $500,000, which was admitted by the executors of Duke's will.

Survey Shows 93 Per Cent Of Families Have One to Six Wage Earners Working

Unemployment is not so widespread in Pittsburgh as had been imagined, Emerson B. Knight, director of the consumer research division of R. L. Polk & Co., publishers of city directories, revealed today in an address before the Chamber of Commerce.

People are not so deeply in debt as was supposed, he declared.

Commercial depression is due to unwarranted fear, according to Knight.

FAMILY HEADS QUESTIONED

Careful and comprehensive inquiries have disclosed, Knight said, that in a section of the city inhabited by people in the most modest circumstances, mostly skilled or unskilled laborers, 93 per cent of the families have from one to six wage earners employed today and earning money, and 58 per cent of the families are under no obligation to make payments on installment purchases.

In the annual canvass of Pittsburgh for the directory, which the firm has been making for 70 years, R. L. Polk & Co. amplified the usual interviews to cover 90

QUIZ OF GARBAGE BIDS ASKED

Francis S. Guthrie, a member of the Citizens Committee which is prosecuting Mayor Charles H. Kline in the food probe, has asked City Council to grant a hearing to investigate the personnel and the financial responsibility of the Modern Service Company, new firm bidding against the American Reduction Company for the city's garbage and rubbish contracts. Guthrie said he was acting as a private citizen and not for the committee.

John S. Herron, president of City Council, on receipt of the written request, said a hearing would probably be granted.

Guthrie has offered to Council information he says he possesses regarding the affairs of the new firm. He states that the apparent low bidder did not comply with the specifications in filing plans of its disposal plant.

Charles B. Prichard, attorney for the Modern Service Company, declared that the company only asks the opportunity to prove its responsibility. He said:

"We have complied with the specifications in filing our plans, and are ready to save the city $1,000,000 in three years. We are prepared to dispose of garbage in an up-to-date way."

Mrs. Thorpe employed her, and, when a week later Mrs. Bostwick was reported ill, Mrs. Thorpe visited the Matilda street rooming house, and had her taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Thorpe also has been caring for Mrs. Bostwick's 18-month-old baby.

WALL STREET ANXIOUS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Germany's acute financial crisis was reflected in Wall street today by a decline in the stock market, a sharp drop in German government bonds and a loss of nearly two cents in the German mark.

Not since the World War days have brokers and bankers in the New York financial district watched the European markets with the concentrated interest they are showing at present. The German situation was the principal topic of discussion in "the Street" this morning.

Wall Street Rallies From Opening Slump

NEW YORK, July 13.—Stocks staged an impressive recovery today following sharp opening losses from Saturday's close, which ranged from 1 to 5 points. The street was rather confused by the German financial development, but an undertone of confidence pervaded the market. Steel common started with a loss of 3½ points on a 5,000-share block at 93. This was followed by a rally which carried the price up about 3 points. Other key stocks followed steel's general trend.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 13.—(AP.)—Typhus fever, a disease said by physicians to be rare in this country but common in Russia and Poland, today claimed a victim here in the death of Andy Thornburw, 14.

Crash Leads to Run on All Banks; Darkest Day Since War Confronts Berlin

International News Service.

Financial panic spread throughout Germany today as members of the Bank for International Settlements met at Basle, Switzerland, to consider emergency measures to save the country from economic ruin and forestall the growing threat of Bolshevism.

Following the closing of the Darmstaedter und National Bank, one of Germany's three largest, depositors staged runs on banks throughout the country, necessitating a general order limiting withdrawals to one-tenth of deposits.

France ordered its border army to prepare for "any eventualities" and Marshals Petain and Lyautey met with Premier Laval at the Ministry of War to discuss the situation.

International News Service.

PARIS, July 13.—French troops along the German frontier have been ordered to take necessary precautions in the case of eventual disorder, it was stated today by the French newspaper La Liberte, extreme Nationalist organ.

Marshals Petain and Lyautey, with other high ranking officers of the French army, had luncheon with Premier Laval at the ministry of war, and it was understood the conversation had to do with the situation in Germany.

No decision was taken, since a number of foreign military attaches were present, but Minister of War Maginot later issued a denial of a newspaper report that preparations had been made to reinforce the frontier guard.

BERLIN, July 13.—The double specter of bankruptcy and Bolshevism hovered over Germany today as desperate efforts were made by statesmen and bankers of the world to solve this country's alarming financial crisis.

The only bright spot on the horizon was an unconfirmed report from London that a combination of American and British banks had arranged a $300,000,000 credit for Germany.

Meanwhile, from one end of the country to the other, Germany was in the midst of a veritable economic panic. The closing of the Darmstaedter und National Bank, one of the country's three largest banking institutions, and the shutdown of the German stock exchanges, combined to alarm the public to an unparalleled degree, despite the fact the government has prom-

Horse Breaks From Wagon In Wild East End Dash

Frightened by a truck and getting rid of the wagon when it swung against an automobile, a runaway horse, pursued by a motorcyclist, fled for a mile and a half through East End traffic this morning. The horse was originally attached to a wagon of the Duquesne Bakery, of Auburn street. While the driver, Charles Wright, was delivering orders in Jancey street, the animal became frightened at the loud exhaust of a truck and bolted out Jancey street to Stanton. For only the first three blocks of his flight was the animal impeded by the wagon, which struck a machine, knocked it onto the sidewalk and so tangled it with the wagon that the fleeing animal was able to break the traces and continue unhandicapped.

A Pittsburgh Railways inspector gave chase on a motorcycle and the runaway was finally caught at Hamilton avenue and Broad street. It was but slightly hurt and no person was injured during its flight through the busy thoroughfares.

Soldier Who Gulped Teeth Rushed by Air to Expert

SCOTT FIELD, BELLEVILLE, Ill., July 13.—(INS.)—The Army ambulance plane, carrying Priv. Olaf Nelson to Washington in order that an operation can be performed to save his life, arrived here today and resumed its journey after a wait of an hour.

Prvt. Nelson swallowed two false teeth Saturday and was being rushed to Washington. Army surgeons said only a delicate operation would save his life.

The plane is expected to reach Washington about 2:30 p. m. today.

Maj. Daniel Franklin, of William Beaumont Hospital, who is accompanying Nelson on the trip to Washington, said the patient was suffering no discomfort from the flight. Maj. Franklin said:

"Only one man in the country—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of Philadelphia—can save Nelson's life."

Dr. Jackson is an expert with the bronscope. He will be waiting for the ambulance plane in Washington.

REDS ASSEMBLE

Meanwhile, threats of radicalism swept over the land. There were also ominous murmurings that the Red march "will not halt at the Rhine." In Berlin and many other cities, large and threatening crowds gathered.

Authoritative observers here described this as the most fateful week Europe has faced since the war. It was generally agreed that the Hoover plan itself cannot now avert an economic breakdown in Germany, and that a substantial international loan is necessary to prevent catastrophe.

FRANCE DENOUNCED

The press in general criticized France's so-called "blackmailing" of Germany. The present situation is blamed upon the "golden bullets" of France.

An appeal to the German people to "keep their nerve, show self-confidence and thereby prevent further difficulties" was contained in a government proclamation.

Traveling across the country over the week-end, this correspondent frequently heard expressions from the public tending to confirm the threat of radical ascendancy in Germany unless the present crisis is swiftly alleviated.

The suspension of the Darmstaedter und National Bank resulted in runs on other important banks when they opened their doors today, increasing through the forenoon. Several decided to pay only a percentage of cash withdrawals.

Frantic scenes occurred at several branches of the Dresdener Bank following announcement by the directors that only 10 per cent of total deposits would be paid out, the maximum withdrawal in any case being 2,000 marks ($500).

To allay alarm among savings bank depositors, the Association of German Savings Banks issued a statement saying their members would meet all withdrawal demands up to the legal maximum. The Association of German Mortgage Banks announced they were untouched by the Danat suspension.

OTHER BANKS FAIL

Meanwhile, Chancellor Bruening convoked his weary cabinet in permanent session as a "war council." Directors of the country's largest banks also met in permanent session, but despite their strenuous efforts, the crisis continued. Schwarz and Goldschmidt and Hammerstein Brothers, two private banking institutions affiliated with the Darmstaedter and National Bank, closed their doors this morning.

The government, over the signature of President von Hindenburg and members of his cabinet, issued a decree empowering it under the "dictatorship clause" of the constitution, to take over guarantees in connection with suspension of the Darmstaedter und National Bank. A commissioner was appointed to take charge of its affairs. The decree forbids any one to start bankruptcy proceedings.

CABINET IMPERILED

Acceptance of the French demands that Germany abandon both the Austro-German customs union and her naval program would mean, it was said here, the certain downfall of the Bruening cabinet.

It was conceded here today that the resignation of Bruening in the present circumstances would mean the coming into power of the extreme Nationalists, whose policies might even provoke a war with France.

Mellon Refuses German Comment

NICE, France, July 13.—(AP.)—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, can make no comment on financial developments in Germany, his secretary said today, because he has not communicated with Washington or Paris since he came down to Cap Ferat for a holiday.

Today Mr. Mellon went out for an automobile ride and the order that he is not to be disturbed is still good, his secretary said. So far as could be learned, the financial situation has not changed Mr. Mellon's plans to leave for home next week.

What Caused the German Crisis

Germany's strong central bank, fighting what has been a losing battle against intangible forces of enormous power, symbolizes the economic struggle that has threatened her with financial ruin, a battle which, if completely lost, would have far-reaching effects throughout the rest of the world.

The immediate cause of the crisis is the withdrawal of huge volume of foreign funds from the reich. In the background, of course, looms the reparations question, with its political uncertainties and considerations both at home and abroad, its questions of ability to pay, its problems of international trade and finance.

FIVE MILLION JOBLESS

Before the World War, Germany was a large lender in other nations. Now she has become a large borrower, with a foreign debt approximating 20,000,000,000 marks. Her unemployment problem is serious, for 5,000,000 persons are out of work. She has lost the favorable trade balance which only last year enabled her to wrest from Great Britain second place honors as an exporting country.

Foreign capital, alarmed at the more serious turn in conditions in the reich, began its exodus several months ago, and in the last few weeks it has reached the serious total of around one and a half billion marks. The German people likewise, it is reported, have been converting their funds into dollars, francs and pounds sterling, and Dutch florins, thus adding to the Reichsbank's difficulties in supporting the mark.

Strenuous measures were taken to halt this outflow; the discount rate was raised, large foreign credits were contracted at the world's financial centers.

OPTIMISM BRIEF

President Hoover's war debt holiday revived confidence but momentarily, and the flight from the mark was renewed vigorously only last week. A thousand of Germany's corporations offered a 500,000,000-mark bank guarantee fund.

Foreign investors in Germany were frightened last fall by the success of the radicals in the national election. The recall of funds, however, did not assume alarming proportions until recently, when Germany seemed on the verge of availing herself of the moratorium provisions in the Young plan.

Germany's rapid industrial recovery following the World War was almost phenomenal. Aided by huge foreign loans, mostly from this country, she applied herself strenuously to the difficult task of reconstruction, although handicapped by the loss of her colonies and important supplies of raw materials.

But the recession in her business abroad from the post-war peak reached about a year ago, was rapid, and in May, 1931, her exports dropped to the lowest point in 20 years, excepting for the war period.

HIT BY DEPRESSION

Lacking gold, post-war Germany was forced to depend on foreign trade for a means of meeting the reparation bills. Gradually her export markets were expanded until her recovery became the talk of the world, but the optimists, both in Germany and elsewhere, had not made full allowance in their reckoning for depression.

It was inevitable that Germany, like the other highly industrialized nations, should suffer from the international reaction, and when the blow fell, it fell hard. Her exports reduced and her imports of raw materials also cut, Germany had to borrow on a large scale.

The recent loans have been of the short term variety, which quickly worked to the reich's disadvantage when the situation at home became more acute. With conditions as they were throughout the world, it was impossible to refund these loans, aggregating probably 1,500,000,000 marks, into long term accommodations and the uncertainty as to when or how substantially these funds would be withdrawn added to the intensity of the crisis.

WORLD BANK'S HEADS MEET

BASLE, Switzerland, July 13.—(INS.)—Directors of the Bank for International Settlements, the gigantic organization created under the Young plan to insure the economic stability of Europe, met at their headquarters today in an effort to find some means of forestalling Germany's financial collapse.

Representatives of the leading nations of Europe assembled at the bank's council table, prepared to take extraordinary measures to stave off the politico-economic crisis facing Germany.

While considerable secrecy surrounded the opening discussions of the bank's directors, it was reported most of them considered Germany's drastic financial decrees, including suspension of domestic payments, tantamount to bankruptcy.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the German Reichsbank, arrived here from Berlin by airplane at 3:40 p. m. today to participate in the efforts to save his country from economic ruin.

11 Stricken After Eating Toadstools

CLEVELAND, July 13.—(INS.)—Eleven persons, members of two families, today were found to be suffering from the effects of eating toadstools which they had mistaken for mushrooms, police reported.

Six of the victims were receiving treatment in hospitals. All will recover, it was believed.

HOOVER BACK AT DESK IN CRISIS

Gets Ambassador Sackett's Report That German Aid 'Must Be Forthcoming'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—President Hoover returned to the capital today from a Rapidan week-end and immediately plunged into consideration of the German crisis, which he had sought to avoid several weeks ago by his war debt suspension plan.

White House attaches said the President was giving the German situation his "undivided attention." He conferred with State Department officials, and closely perused a large pile of press reports and official reports from American observers abroad which came into the department over the week-end.

A report from Ambassador Sackett, in Berlin, informed the White House Germany must have financial assistance very quickly.

The Ambassador has reported in detail to the state department on the German situation.

While there was no formal appeal by the German government to the United States for help, the Ambassador said that help must be forthcoming.

There is little, if anything, that the President can do in the situation, it was admitted, except to lend moral support to whatever corrective measures are decided upon abroad.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was one of the President's early callers.

Stimson Inspects Roman Battlefields

ROME, July 13.—(AP.)—Col. Henry L. Stimson, Italy's most distinguished tourist, left Nettuno by automobile this morning to visit the ancient battlefields in the vicinity of Rome. This afternoon he received the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Germany at the American Embassy.

Yesterday he was visited by Premier Mussolini, who took him and Mrs. Stimson for a brief trip in the premier's speedboat.

DIAMOND'S BAIL RECALLED AS TRIAL OPENS

Gangster Must Stay in Jail Until Verdict; Courtroom Locked During Proceedings

TROY, N. Y., July 13.—Trial of Jack (Legs) Diamond, Manhattan gangster, charged with torture of Grover Parks, a Greene County farmer, started here today before Supreme Court Justice Cropsey.

As the first move, Justice Cropsey ordered Diamond's bail terminated and that he be remanded to jail until the conclusion of the trial.

Justice Cropsey made this move without waiting for motion by the prosecution. Then he ordered the courtroom doors locked during the trial and opened only during regular recesses.

The attack on Parks occurred last April as he hauled a load of cider in his truck. He identified Diamond as his tormenter and said Marion Roberts, former Broadway showgirl, was with him and watched the mistreatment. Miss Roberts also was indicted, but never was apprehended. Reports of intimidation of witnesses reached the Capitol at Albany and Gov. Roosevelt supplanted the Greene County district attorney, assigning Attorney General John J. Bennett to conduct the investigation.

The investigation revealed that New York gangsters had "muscled in" on bootlegging, where alliances had failed, and, that up and down the Hudson Valley the name of Diamond meant terror and coercion. Toward the end of April Diamond was shot from ambush as he left the Saratoga Inn near Cairo, outside Catskill.

PARIS REFUSES ASSISTANCE

PARIS, July 13.—(AP.)—Germany's latest appeal for financial assistance, made to Premier Laval by Ambassador Von Hoesch last night, was before the government today.

M. Laval was hurriedly called back to Paris from his country home, and Herr Von Hoesch in a lengthy interview painted the gravity of the situation in the darkest colors. It was understood he received no satisfaction except for a sympathetic hearing.

The Premier is believed to have told him that France was unable to help Germany, for the present at least, because of financial as well as political reasons.

LONDON, July 13.—Germany's acute financial crisis was the subject of discussion by the cabinet of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald today.

Gerard Sees All Europe Turn Red

CHICAGO, July 13.—(INS.)—Germany's collapse within a year and Communism for all Europe eventually was predicted today by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, as he went through here on his way to Montana.

In his opinion President Hoover's debt holiday proposal came too late to save Germany. If the Reds gain control of Germany, England, France and Spain would follow, he declared.

BANK 'WIZARD' IN CRASH

BERLIN, July 13.—(AP.)—The collapse of the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank threw into prominence today the name of Jacob Goldschmidt, its managing director, long considered one of the financial geniuses of Germany.

At the age of 49, Goldschmidt was on the executive boards of more industrial concerns than any other German—99 in all. These included the Hamburg American Line, the Steel Trust, General Electric, Lufthansa and various insurance and mining companies.

As the second son of a Hanoverian merchant, he rose from the humblest beginning to eminence.

Goldschmidt said today the storm of short credit withdrawals from abroad in recent weeks concentrated on his bank and culminated in its collapse. He characterized this as "the result of mad, unreasoning panic among foreign lenders."

Today

the railroads have got to be kept alive.

Railroad income in the first five months of 1931 dropped to 188 millions odd, from 308 millions in the same months of 1930.

The number of railroad employes has been reduced by one-fourth since 1920, and railroad passenger travel is steadily diminishing, thanks to the nation's 25 million automobiles.

Something must be done about and for the railroads. We, as well as Germany, have our problems and troubles, with the number of our unemployed greater than in any nation. But nobody is interested in our woes.

Men well informed on international financial conditions regard the New York stock market as a barometer with which to judge the progress being made in the working out of Germany's credit problem.

The failure of the Darmstaedter und National Bank exercised a depressing effect on the New York stock and bond markets.

The Berlin Boerse was closed today, and will be closed tomorrow, too, by order of the German government. The Paris Bourse was closed on account of a holiday. The London exchange was opened, however, and was accepted in New York as a gauge of the trend of conditions on the continent. The London market opened weak, but later rallied.

RESERVE HEADS MEET

An indication of American interest in the foreign situation was manifest by a meeting held here last night of officials of the New York Reserve Bank. The session was attended by Ogden L. Mills, acting secretary of the treasury, and S. Parker Gilbert, former agent general for reparations. At the meeting a policy to be followed by the bank in connection with a new credit to Germany was drafted.

The meeting was a long one, and while no intimation was given today as to the plan adopted on the question of assistance to Germany, it was generally accepted in Wall street that the bank completed steps for immediate aid should call for assistance to be sounded by the heads of the various central banks, who were to assemble today at Basle to weigh the German situation.

Nansen's Son, Sled Racer Wed in Forest Romance

BOSTON, July 13.—(AP.)—In a romance of the great outdoors Elizabeth Miller Ricker, internationally-known dogsled racer, and Kaare Nansen, a forest engineer and son of the late Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, have been married.

Mrs. Ricker was introduced to Nansen about eight months ago, and they were married last Tuesday, six days after her divorce from Edward P. Ricker, Jr., of Poland Spring, Me., wealthy resort owner, became absolute. Ricker obtained the divorce in an uncontested suit.

Her keen interest in Nansen's in plotting the vast Canadian north woods w[illegible] reciprocated by his admiration for her achievements as a dogsled racer and writer.

Mrs. Nansen, probably the best known woman dog sled racer in the world, broke the record for the 25-mile course at Poland Spring in 1930, defeating Leonard Seppala by 90 seconds. A native of Providence, R. I., she was married to Edward P. Ricker, Jr., in 1922.

Nansen is the eldest son of the Arctic explorer who died in 1930. The couple will spend part of their honeymoon in Norway, where Mrs. Nansen will devote sometime to practicing for dog sled races.

Hoover Moratorium to Last For Eternity, Shaw Says

LONDON, July 13.—(INS.)—The one-year Hoover moratorium will last throughout eternity, George Bernard Shaw told International News Service today. He said:

"There's a pretty deadlock in progress now. It is obvious that no German government can agree to political concessions without falling. France is likely to find that there will be no reparations payment forthcoming Wednesday. And she will not be able to do a thing. It is a question of the tail wagging the dog.

"Europe has been heading towards this situation for a long time. Nations simply cannot go on paying enormous war debts, but the creditors are painfully aware that once the moratorium becomes effective the suspension on payments will continue throughout eternity.

"What will happen is this: America will have to produce enough money to save Europe."

FRENCH FLIERS SOAR OVER RUSSIA ON WAY TO TOKIO

LE BRIX, DORET LIKELY ABOVE HEAVY FOG

International News Service.

MOSCOW, June 13.—Low-lying fog over most of Eastern Russia and Siberia today prevented check-up of the progress of Lieuts. Joseph Le Brix and Marcel Doret, attempting a non-stop flight from Paris to Tokio, first leg of a projected record-breaking round the world tour.

Nothing has been heard of the fliers since they soared over Moscow in their huge plane at 7:30 p. m. yesterday (1:30 p. m. Pittsburgh time). No anxiety was felt however, Soviet authorities believing they probably were making good progress above the clouds and fog.

Their plane is the Hyphen, in which they broke the world's distance record over a closed circuit several weeks ago. Carrying fuel for 70 hours in the air, they hope to break the present straight line record of 4,909 miles, held by Maj. Dieudonne Coste and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte, of transcontinental fame.

They expected to be in Tokio in 62 hours, following the course of the Trans-Siberian Railroad to Mukden and hopping across the Japan Sea on the final lap.

Hungarians Make Quick Start on Budapest Hop

ROOSEVELT, FIELD, N. Y., July 13.—(AP.)—After waiting almost two years for just the right combination of conditions, atmospheric and mechanical, Alexander Magyar and George Endres took off today on the first leg of a flight to Hungary.

They expected to reach Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, before dark and after replenishing their fuel supply begin the Atlantic hop in the morning. They hope to fly non-stop from Newfoundland to Budapest, or at least to some point within the borders of Hungary.

The decision to start the long-delayed flight was reached so suddenly that no one was present to watch the take-off except field employes and a few visitors who didn't even realize that they were witnessing the beginning of an ocean flight.

The fliers took off here at 10:53 a. m. (Pittsburgh time), and in their low-winged Lockheed, which has a cruising range of from 160 to 175 miles an hour, expected to reach Harbor Grace in about seven hours.

The weather was clear almost all the way from New York to Harbor Grace, and though there were head winds they were light and were not expected to diminish speed materially.

Fliers Honor Mexican In Hop from New York

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., July 13.—(AP.)—After circling the Brownsville airport at 9:35 a. m. (11:35 Pittsburgh time) today, the airplane Capt. Emilio Carranza, on a non-stop flight between New York and Mexico City, straightened out across the Rio Grande and headed into Mexico. The ship was piloted by Edward Maloney and Seth Yerrington.

The fliers had been aloft 17 hours and 59 minutes when they left the United States, after a night in the air traversing the Southern States. It appeared they were flying on schedule and would reach Mexico City in approximately 22 hours, the time they set on taking off from Roosevelt Field, New York, late yesterday.

SISTER DEAD, ILL BOY NOT TOLD

William P. Meyer, Jr., 11, of 1131 Washington avenue, Monaca, lying on a cot in the Rochester General Hospital, today wanted to go home to play with his 6-year-old sister, June, unaware that she had been burned to death.

June was burned fatally when matches with which she was playing ignited her clothing Saturday. She was taken to the Rochester General Hospital by Clifton Trumpeter, a neighbor, where she died early yesterday morning.

Mrs. Meyer reached the hospital Saturday to visit her son, only to be told that June was there. She was incredulous, because she had left her daughter playing in the back yard shortly before.

STORM WRECKS BLIMP, PILOT BURNED

Goodyear Dirigible Tossed Against Wires by Wind; Leaking Gasoline Ignited

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(AP.)—A sudden storm swept the $60,000 Goodyear dirigible Mayflower to destruction against high tension wires near the Municipal Airport here last night.

Capt. Charles E. Brannigan, 35, the pilot, was burned dangerously in an attempt to weather alone a high wind that jerked the 140-foot craft from its mooring mast and a ground crew.

Gasoline spilling from tanks ruptured by a crash against the roof of an army hangar was ignited as the Mayflower hurtled against a transformer. The bag was filled with helium gas, which is non-inflammable.

FALLS IN PATH OF TRAIN

Capt. Brannigan fell with the gondola in front of a northbound freight train on railway tracks below. The train halted 50 yards away. Brannigan was rescued by a co-pilot, R. H. Hobensack, who, with Claude Hendershot, a member of the crew, had dropped to safety a moment before. Hobensack, his clothing drenched by rain, was burned slightly. Hospital physicians said Brannigan's condition was critical.

The Akron (O.) airship carried passengers over the city throughout the afternoon. It had been moored to a portable mast for the night less than an hour before the storm struck.

OHIO SHRINERS IN CONVENTION SPOTLIGHT

Thousands March in Parade As Delegations Arrive in Cleveland From All Parts

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service.

CLEVELAND, July 13.—(INS.)—Turning this city into a literal oasis of ancient Arabia, delegates to the fifty-seventh annual imperial council session of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, swarmed into Cleveland today, dressed in garbs that represented every color of the rainbow.

While thousands of other delegates from every nook and corner of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba turned Cleveland's business district into a rollicking playground for themselves, Ohio Shriners took the spotlight of the convention profrom with the impressive all-Ohio ceremonial.

Potentates of Ohio temples at Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Cincinnati, Akron and Cleveland were to lead the massive parade, four miles in length, each sitting astride an elephant.

POTENTATE IN LINE

Imperial Potentate Esten A. Fletcher, of Rochester, N. Y., was escorted by his own Damascus Temple patrol, the only patrol from another state marching in the Parade.

The Ohio ceremonial and parade constituted the entire official program for today. The first business session of the Imperial Council will be held Tuesday afternoon. Three applications for charters, from Malison, Wis., Topeka, Kan., and Vancouver, B. C., are among the matters scheduled to come before the council. No charters have been issued for six years.

Chicago, officials believe, will be selected as the site for the 1932 convention.

COURT DELAYS FALL ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—After a lengthy conference with attorneys, Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today postponed action in the case of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow.

There was no explanation for the postponement.

Justice Bailey on Saturday had refused to suspend the one-year jail sentence given Fall for accepting a $100,000 bribe for an oil lease while he was secretary of the interior.

EL PASO, Tex., July 13.—(INS.)—Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall wants to serve his one-year jail sentence at Santa Fe, N. M. — not in El Paso, as has been suggested.

He wired his Washington attorney again today, instructing him to seek permission for the term to be served in New Mexico and to object to his confinement anywhere else.

Dr. J. H. Gambrell, Fall's personal physician, also wired to Washington a statement saying that Fall's health would be seriously impaired by a term in the jail at El Paso.

14 FORMER COAL POLICE MADE DEPUTIES

Only Few Given Commissions Despite Many Applications Filed by Mine Companies

Although numerous requests for making deputy sheriffs of former coal and iron police have been made to Sheriff Robert S. Cain, so far only 10 have been sworn in, it was announced today.

Chief Deputy Sheriff B. V. Coffey explained that although practically all companies formerly employing coal and iron police had made application to have them sworn in as deputy sheriffs, requests of only three companies had been granted and these totaled only 10 men.

APPLICATIONS STUDIED

These 10 are divided among the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the Harwick Coal Company and the Consumers Coal Company.

All applications for deputy sheriff's powers are being rigidly inquired into, Coffey said, and this was why the number finally passed upon had been so small.

The practice of most of the companies formerly using coal and iron police, he said, has been to apply to have their captains, lieutenants and sergeants made deputies and to use their patrolmen as private watchmen.

BOROUGH POLICE USED

On July 1 commissions of the coal and iron police, numbering nearly 1,000, were revoked by Gov. Pinchot.

Special borough police are being used by some companies instead of deputy sheriffs, it is said.

In Westmoreland County Sheriff Ray B. Johnston said only four deputies had been commissioned since the abolishment of the coal and iron police. He said these men had been employed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company in police duty prior to the order. Other companies have considered such action, Johnston said, but so far have not made application.

Mine Strikers 'Cowed' By Guards, Educators Say

The striking miners are "cowed," the deputy sheriffs in the trouble zone "haphazard" and the state police "surprisingly efficient and well behaved"—such were the impressions of William L. Nunn, an instructor at New York University; Colston E. Warne, instructor at Amherst, and Mauritz Hallgren, associate editor of The Nation, when they ended a tour of the strike zone today.

Nunn and Warne are former members of the Pitt faculty, who were dismissed as a result of their liberal views.

The three spent the morning at the No. 8 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Coverdale, where 250 miners were picketing the workings.

During the trio's stop at Coverdale, deputy sheriffs took Sylvano Gallis, 41, of Houston, from the picket line and arrested him on a disorderly conduct charge.

Nunn said that Acting Chief Deputy C. E. Moore, in charge of the detail, was "more or less rambunctious" and used unnecessarily harsh language in making the arrest.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers the Atlantic coast states and westward to the Mississippi Valley, while over the West the pressure is relatively low, with centers over Manitoba, and the Far Southwest. This distribution of pressure is causing showery condition over the states from Indiana to the central plains and from Canada to the Ohio River. The rainfall was light and somewhat scattered. It is getting warmer over the eastern states, while over the West there was little change since yesterday. Temperatures were moderate generally, except in Oklahoma and Texas where close to 100 degrees obtained yesterday afternoon.

American Girl Near Death As Circus Dive Fails

VIENNA, July 13. — (AP.) — Anne Ringers, 21-year-old American vaudeville performer, was injured seriously today in her diving act at the Central Circus.

Her turn consisted of a dive from 100 feet into a small tank of water. Handicapped by an arm injured in a previous mishap, the girl leaped nervously, dislocating her spine as she struck the water. She had been performing only a few months.

Her father, Pekejay Ringers, who usually followed her leap from a height of 70 feet, was terrified at her failure to reappear and scrambled down the ladder from his perch.

The girl was taken to a hospital, where her condition was said to be serious.

Turbulent scenes occurred at the circus after the tragedy. Although the "death spring" as it was billed, was the last item on the program, a number of spectators demanded the return of their money.

WRITES NOTE, DIES IN LEAP

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP.)—A woman believed to be Mrs. Sarah Kolstner, 39, scribbled a pathetic note of solicitude for her two children and of love for her husband and then leaped from the ninth floor of a South Side hotel to her death today.

She had registered, the hotel clerk said, as Mrs. Kolstner, and her body was found an hour later. A note, addressed to her husband Louis, read:

"I don't want to stand in the way of your folks. Take care of the children very good. Have Harold's eyes tested twice a year. He might get cold if he sits on wet ground. Have Edward's tonsils removed and he will be all right. You were always wonderful to me. I love you with all my heart—may God bless you."

Special Election For Graham's Seat

HARRISBURG, July 13. (AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today proclaimed a special election in the Second Congressional District of Philadelphia at the final election in November, to select a successor to the late Congressman George S. Graham.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

THIS IS THE STORY of a little speakeasy in the Times Square district. It is the story of a gay place for sad people. It is the story of a place for men who dread the future and women who hate the past. It is a story of Broadway—and a man that shall be known as Jerry.

You don't know Jerry. Well, there's really nothing unusual about him. Just one of a million. Average height. Neat dresser. Affable. A glad hand for everyone. Good looking, in a way. About 30.

Until a year ago I didn't know Jerry either. But they came to me one day and told me of that new speakeasy. Huge gobs of free lunch, they said. Just like the old days. Everybody was going. So I went, too. And that's how I met Jerry.

He played the piano in that speakeasy. He had a little instrument that he dragged from table to table. As he played, he would sing. All this at every individual table. And he seemed to be able to catch the mood of his listeners with uncanny skill.

A queer place, that speakeasy. In the back, a long bar. Three bartenders. A big cash register. The boss, who never touched a drop of liquor. A free lunch counter brimming over with delicacies that made the customers thirstier and thirstier. A cigaret girl who never smoked.

In the room itself there were tables. Not more than 12 or 15. Two waiters. Dim lights. Barren walls, sadly in need of repainting. Here the patrons would chase happiness as the waiters chased the drinks. The customers came from every walk of life. And Jerry had a song for each and every one.

Here they came the whole night through. Crooks, movie stars, reporters, bond salesmen, cloak and suiters, writers, bricklayers, actors, gunmen, drug store clerks, dance hall girls, ladies of the early morning, wives looking for their husbands, husbands looking for their wives, fools trying to be wise and wise men being absolute fools.

To all of these Jerry would play. A snatch of this and a bit of that. Now sentimental. Now fast. Sometimes loud. Often gentle. First a rhapsody. Then a rumba.

There was always a glass of liquor in front of Jerry. He played better that way. A big, black cigar was always beside the liquor. And a package of cigarettes was beside the cigar. And he played on. And on. And on.

When I grew to know him better, I asked him about himself. His story was as it should have been. He had traveled all over the nation, singing here and singing there. Always the same kind of life. He meant nothing to his family. His family meant nothing to him. This speakeasy was his first real strike. The money was rolling in. He was enjoying himself immensely. He was doing what he wanted to do.

* * *

One night—some 10 months ago—I grew serious with him.

"Jerry," I said, "you can't keep up this sort of life forever. No human can stand it. Your health is bound to go. And—"

I stopped. Because he was laughing.

"Well," he was saying, "they haven't caught me yet. And I guess they're not going to. I spent two winters in the stuffiest honky-tonk in Tijuana. And any guy who can do that isn't going to let Broadway get him.

"Have you ever been in Tijuana?"

I told him I had been, and knew just what sort of places were down there. And because I sensed that he no longer wished to talk about it, I turned to the hat check girl, took my hat. And left the place.

Three weeks ago I walked into the speakeasy. Jerry was at the piano. But he was different this night. His eyes seemed larger. There were two tiny pink points in his cheeks. He was singing far louder than usual. He seemed to be sparkling with some unnatural brilliance.

There was a crowd around his piano. There was no glass of liquor in front of him now. But that big, black cigar still reposed on a tray. Everyone seemed so happy. So gay.

I crowded my way to the front. And tapped Jerry on the shoulder.

"What is it, boy?" I asked.

He jumped up.

"Haven't you heard?" he cried. "I'm bound for Saranac Lake tomorrow afternoon. It's my left lung. The doc says I've got to get out of town before they carry me out. The drinks are on me. Hey, Harry, take care of Mark. Maybe I'll come back. Maybe I won't. This is my last night. I'm playing all the songs for the boys and girls. Sit down and join the chorus.

"What'll it be, fellows? Nope. Not tonight. None of that sentimental junk. Don't feel like it. All right, let's try that one. Here we go...."

* * *

Last night I passed that speakeasy. Something told me to go in. And I did.

The place was just the same. The same bar. The same boss. The same atmosphere. Only Jerry was gone. To Saranac.

A new pianist was occupying his stool. He was singing—just as Jerry had done. Not as effectively, perhaps. But an able substitute at that. I stood there and watched him. He smoked no cigars. Only cigarets. Every once in so often, he would call for a drink. And I suddenly decided to ask him about himself.

He talked. Gladly. Easily. Freely.

"I'm from the coast," he said. "Knew Jerry out there. Great worker, that kid. Too bad he had to go. But then, that's the way things happen."

I couldn't help the next question.

"Don't you ever feel," I asked, "that you might go the same way?"

He looked at me, a light of amusement in his eyes, and cried:

"Not me. I've bummed all over this country and Broadway's one of the healthiest spots I know. I even got away with a couple of seasons in Tijuana. And the dives down there are tough on the lungs.

"Have you ever been in Tijuana?"

PAINTERS FALL 20 FEET, HURT

Two painters were dropped 20 feet to an airway sidewalk when a scaffold from which they were painting the home of Mrs. Anna Morgan, 5205 Holmes street, broke early today.

A third painter, Charles Smith, of South Wheeler street, Etna, had left the scaffold but a few minutes before its collapse.

He was on the ground when his companions—Joseph Ambrose, of 127 Roundtop street, Crafton Heights, and Edward Wheeler, of 7510 Hamilton avenue—fell.

Smith summoned aid, and had the men taken to West Penn Hospital, where their injuries were treated.

Smith said the scaffold had been made of three ladders lashed together and that the center one had broken.

TEXTILE STRIKE MOB ROUTED

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 13.—(AP.)—Ten persons were arrested this morning as crowds gathered in the vicinity of the Royal Weaving Company, where a strike is in progress.

The first disturbance near the plant occurred when the police broke up a crowd of 300 persons who attempted to conduct a mass meeting in a field near the mill. A squad of officers hurried to the spot in commandeered automobiles, arested a woman and a man, who were alleged to have offered resistance, and drove the crowd about half a mile down the street.

Others were arrested in the neighborhood of the plant later for failing to obey police orders to move on. The police were armed with tear gas, riot guns and night sticks.

Two hundred thoroughly trained men questioned the heads of 115,000 out of about 150,000 families in the city. Knight emphasized that the interviewers obtained their information in person from responsible adults and reported their answers without color or guesswork.

SIGNIFICANT FACTS

The tabulations are now being made. The city was divided into 22 zones and the facts of just one zone have been compiled so far. It happens to be a zone of low buying power. In reporting on the results of the study, Knight said:

"Two highly significant facts have been brought out.

"First, we find in this district of low buying power that more than 93 per cent of the families have from one to six wage-earners employed today and earning money—an extremely healthy condition, indicating fear is the chief reason for depression and not any fundamental. This was not guessed, not estimated. It is not a case of the wish being father to the thought. It is the cold, unvarnished truth, obtained by mechanical tabulation.

"Second, the people have either paid off their obligations or relieved themselves of the installment burden. Fifty-eight per cent of all families are cleaned up, have got out from under the yoke of the installment plan. When the upturn comes, they will be fresh and unhampered, in respect to buying power, and ready to go."

STATISTICS GIVEN

Knight presented the following figures:

Three per cent of the families are buying automobiles on the installment plan and have them more than half paid for; less than one per cent have them less than half paid for.

Five per cent are buying radio sets and have them more than half paid for; three per cent have them less than half paid for.

Four per cent are buying electric appliances and have them more than half paid for; three per cent have them less than half paid for.

Eight per cent are buying furniture and have it more than half paid for; three per cent have it less than half paid for.

About 1 per cent are buying pianos and have them more than half paid for; less than one-half of 1 per cent have them less than half paid for.

Fourteen per cent are buying homes and have them more than half paid for; 8 per cent have them less than half paid for.

The tabulations for all the zones will be completed early in September. Pittsburgh is the first of 1,280 cities to be studied, at the request and with the support of national industries. These cities represent, with their trade areas, 70 per cent of the population of the country.

Shock of Dealing With Fred Burke Kills Woman

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(AP.)—Death of Mrs. Lovine McLanahan, 63, today was attributed by her son, Orville McLanahan, to shock she experienced last spring when she discovered she had been negotiating for the sale of a house to Fred Burke, notorious killer.

The son said Mrs. McLanahan, who died yesterday, never had recovered.

A few days before Burke, who dealt with Mrs. McLanahan under another name, was to have completed the contract for the house, he was captured near Green City, Mo. Subsequently he was given a penitentiary sentence in Michigan for the slaying of a policeman.

SKILL TO DECIDE RUSS FARM PAY

MOSCOW, July 13.—(AP.)—As a further detail in the system of reimbursing collective farm labor according to individual needs, the People's Commissariat for Agriculture decreed today that payment now shall be made only on the basis of quantity and quality of work performed.

Aimed at increasing the "material interestedness" of the farmers, thus enlarging production, the decree was another concrete result of the new Soviet industrial policy and a departure from the doctrine "from each according to his capacity, to each according to his needs."

Plate Glass Workers Attend Wage Parley

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 13.—(AP.)—Members of the American Plate Glass Workers' Union have arrived here for the annual wage conference with the manufacturers of cut and blown glassware.

The workers will [illegible] the cases in certain departments and for an eight-hour day and a five-day week. The conference will be presided over by E. J. Gun Kills Hunter In Fall From Tree

READING, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—Ulysses Adam, 24, was killed yesterday when he fell from a tree where he was perched hunting groundhogs. His gun discharged as he fell and he was shot through the heart. He was found by a searching party that went out when he failed to return.

Title .....

The $2,000.00 in cash prizes will be divided into two classes—$1,000.00 for each class.

Double Awards Will Be Paid to Winners Who Turn in One New 6-Months' Home Delivery Subscription or Paid-in-Advance Mail Subscription For the Daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph Before the End of This Contest.

There is an open class in which $1,000.00 is to be given away in prizes irrespective of the subscription angle. Should, however, your set of answers be selected as one of the winning sets and you have turned in a NEW subscription, you will get a DOUBLE AWARD. This means that if you win the first prize—$200.00—and have turned in a NEW subscription, you will be paid $400.00—the DOUBLE AWARD. If you are qualifying for the DOUBLE AWARD list of prizes send in your subscription immediately. And the same ratio will apply to the entire 135 cash awards announced in the list.

Bear in mind that $1,000.00 will be given away at the end of the contest—subscriptions or no subscriptions. Don't miss this opportunity to earn some much needed cash.

Read These Simple Rules

(1) Under the title, "Fiction Title Test," the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph will publish a series of cartoons to run consecutively for 40 days, starting Sunday, July 12. All of these cartoons will represent the title of a popular novel, and prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the neatest, most original and most nearly correct sets of pictures and answers.

(2) A total of $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded in an open class and an added $1,000 is also offered to be drawn upon to provide for double awards to entrants turning in one NEW six months' home delivery or mail subscription order for the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

(3) This offer is open to all except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families. You pay nothing. Files of the Sun-Telegraph are available at the Public Library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, and you may make tracings of the cartoons if you desire.

(4) Answers in the contest are not to be submitted until the entire set of 40 has been printed. After the last (No. 40) cartoon has appeared, entrants will be allowed 15 days to submit their sets of answers. They are to be addressed to the "Fiction Title Test" Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(5) All answers submitted become the property of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and none will be returned. The judges will be appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

SAVES $3,000. SON SPENDS IT

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP.)—For 10 years Mrs. Rose Amato hoarded the money she earned from her grocery store, until she had accumulated $3,000. She concealed it in three rolls of bills behind some tomato cans on a top shelf.

Today she had left from these years of saving, $91 in cash, two bicycles, two air rifles and one swimming suit.

The explanation was given, police said, by her 13-year-old son, Johnny, who found the three rolls of bills, and then went among his friends to see that an end was put to the business depression in the Maxwell street district. Laden with $10, $20 and $50 bills, Johnny and his associates flocked to the stores. He began talking to the police a short time after he had given his mother the bicycles, air rifles and swimming suit. From two of his companions the $91 was recovered.

NOBEL WINNER, PRELATE, DIES

UPSALA, Sweden, July 13.—(AP.)—Dr. Nathan Soederblom, 65, archbishop of Upsala and primate of all Sweden, who devoted his life to the cause of world piece, died last night.

His death, which came from a heart attack following upon an operation, occurred at this university town, where he spent most of his outwardly uneventful life.

He came once into the limelight which he normally shunned. That was on December 12 last year, when in company with Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, he received the Nobel peace prize. His award was for 1930, Kellogg's for 1929.

The cornerstone of his belief was that world peace could come through a universal understanding among the Christian churches.

Mothers-in-Law Not Always As Bad as They Seem

Is it always mother's fault?

Blondy is convinced that it is.

"She's just selfish," she cries. "She doesn't want Bill to marry because she wants him and his money for herself. And I know he loves me, yet he lets her part us.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"Won't you please try to help me? My heart is breaking and I don't know what to do. You see I am in love with a fine young man and he is in love with me. I know he is because he has told me so many times and has asked me to marry him.

SAYS SHE'S SELFISH

"But his mother is coming between us. She seemed to like me fine at first and treated me like a good friend. But when she found Bill was really interested in me she began to not be so nice to me and to tell Bill things to separate us. He still comes to see me, but he says that, when he told her he wanted to get married, she broke down and cried and said she didn't think he should do it . . . that I was a nice girl and all that but that she could not stand it to be left alone.

"And he listens to her, Sally. And being a nice, good-hearted Mamma's Boy he gives her $50 a week out of his pay. I guess that's probably the real rub. If he got married he couldn't do that any more and I guess she wants to hang onto those nice big checks. I know she is awfully selfish. Else why doesn't she give him his chance for happiness?

SURE OF LOVE

"Now she wants him to stay away from me altogether. And he is letting her get away with it, although all my friends tell me that he always asks about me, and carries my picture around with him. He told me once that if we ever broke up he would never look at another girl. So I am sure that he really does love me. Oh, I don't know what to do! I love him so. I have tried to make him see how things really are, but he won't go against her.

"BLONDY."

How can you win him back?

Don't you mean, how can I take him away from his mother? You can't, my dear. Bill has formed the mother habit just like any other normal boy forms it and mother will always occupy a special corner in his heart. Of course she is selfish to prevent him from marrying . . . and he is a weak fish to let her. But . . .

What are the circumstances? You say she has her eye on that $50 check Bill hands her every week. Well, could she get along without it? Or is it all she has? Maybe it's up to Bill to take care of her.

But in any case, if you love Bill your only chance with him is to make his mother like you so well that she'll want you for a daughter-in-law. And you will never do that by antagonism.

HAS GOOD QUALITIES

You'll do it by seeing her good qualities. She has 'em, you know. And you really love Bill for his good qualities that she has trained into him from babyhood. Look for them in her and tell your mutual friends about them. Tell Bill about them when you see him. Tell her. Look for them until you can build up a genuine admiration for the real fineness in her.

And see as much of Bill as you can. He loves his mother and your appreciation of her will increase his love for you. And in time she will grow to love you, too, if you love her. No one can withstand appreciation and love like that. The chances are that she will take you into her heart . . . if you first take her into yours. Try it!

And if you succeed, will she live with you? She may have to. If she does, remember this: In spite of all the world's wisecracks about mothers-in-law . . . what ails 'em is often daughters-in-law.

Fury of a Woman Is Based Not on Scorn But Upon Repudiation, Says Fay King

HOW CAN YOU TREAT ME LIKE THIS AFTER ALL WE'VE BEEN TO EACH OTHER.
I'LL GET EVEN WITH HIM!
WHAT ABOUT —
SHE NEVER MEA— A THING IN MY LIFE —
HIS CHANGE OF HEART IS SO COMPLETE HE FORGETS ALL FEELING HE HAD FOR THE OTHER GIRL
FAY KING

By FAY KING

When a man wishes to absolve himself from all responsibility toward a woman of whom he wishes to be rid, he always resorts to that quotation that "hell knows no furs like a woman scorned."

He insists that he never in any way encouraged her. That all her accusations are false. That the very fact that he was immune to her attractions is the cause of her fury and revenge.

A woman stands very little chance no matter how good the grounds for her accusations, because men stick together and defend each other. Affairs with women play little or no part in the sum total of their estimation of one another.

The fury of a woman is based not upon scorn, but upon repudiation.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why "Heartburn" Is So Common With Americans

Heartburn is a common complaint. I think it is more frequently heard of among Americans than the citizens of other lands.

Dr. Copeland

This is explained by our methods of living, of course. Europeans differ markedly in their mode of living. We are more prone to rush than they are.

The morning begins with a rush that continues throughout the day. The average American would not dream of taking an hour off for his midday meal. The European would never take less.

Normally, the gastric juice content found in the stomach contains about one-half per cent hydrochloric acid. This is rather a strong percentage, but it is normally neutralized by the food, as well as the alkaline secretion of the pancreas found in the intestine. This serves to decrease the acidity to about one-fifth per cent acid.

If for any reason the food does not pass out of the stomach in normal time, no alkaline secretion is received from the intestine. Naturally, if there is no dilution the stomach spoken of as "heartburn."

As a result there may be a disturbance of the stomach, causing some of its liquid content to be ejected upward. This reverse action causes a burning sensation commonly spoken of as "heartburn."

Heartburn is likely to occur where there is any kind of digestive disturbance. Rapid eating is one of the most frequent causes. In order to insure proper digestion, we should thoroughly relax and eat slowly.

Many persons are the victims of habit. Lack of appreciation of how to eat is one of the bad habits. Bad eating habits are easily acquired but more difficult to discard.

It is true that alkaline medication, such as the giving of bicarbonate of soda, will relieve heartburn. This is brought about merely because it neutralizes the acid of the stomach.

It is better to remedy heartburn by being more considerate of your stomach. Never eat in a hurry. Do not gulp your food. Chew slowly and enjoy each morsel before swallowing it.

In general, avoid all fried food, greasy and rich substances. Make the mealtime an agreeable part of the day.

The Cardiac Clinic

By DOROTHY ROE

Tea for two and two for tea—
It's merely hospitali-tee.

If all the jealous husbands in the world were stretched out in a straight line—they'd make a beautiful bonfire.

Jealous husbands can cause more useless pain than any other known malady.

Something ought to be done about them.

But some wives like them that way. And there's the rub.

Here's a patient with a popular complaint:

Dear Diagnostician:

I have been married very happily for 10 years. I am as much in love with my husband as I was when I married him, and he is a model as husbands go. His only trouble is that he is insanely jealous.

A few days ago an old friend of mine came to town—a man I have known all my life. There never was any romance between us, but since we used to be such good friends, he asked me if he might call and have tea with me. Naturally, I asked him to come.

When my husband learned that he was coming, he forbade me to see him. Do you think he was justified?

I don't see why his jealousy should cut me off from all my friends, especially when the appointment question was of such a casual nature.

Should I obey my husband, and offend my friend, or should I take this opportunity to make my husband realize that I am not a child, to be bossed about?

Don't you think if he really loves me he ought to have some confidence in me?

Yours,
MRS. B.

Diagnosis: I think your husband is being unreasonable. If he loves you, as you say, he should trust you.

The days when a gentleman locked his wife up in a feudal castle while he went out after some pipe tobacco or a new suit of armor, are gone forever.

Modern marriages, to be successful, must be based on mutual faith.

Surely your husband couldn't be very happy if he thought that you stayed with him simply because you never had an opportunity to see another man.

The fact that you chose him in preference to any other man proves that you love him.

He should be made to realize that.

If I were you I would invite my friend to tea, and make it a point to introduce him to my husband. Then he will see for himself that there is nothing clandestine about your friendship.

It's all right to humor a husband's whims up to a certain point, but there's no sense in making a doormat of yourself. And you can't isolate yourself from the world, even for your husband.

When your husband sees that he can't bully you, he'll probably calm down a lot. All men would like to be czars, if they could get away with it. But few of them can.

Household Hints

Rinse out the pan in which milk is to be heated with cold water and then pour in the milk. This will greatly lessen the liability of scorching.

If you should spill grease on the kitchen linoleum, sprinkle soda on it and pour boiling water over it. It can then be wiped up without danger of leaving just enough grease to cause a nasty fall.

Even after the smoke of the party has cleared there is apt to remain an unpleasant odor. To eliminate the odor of stale smoke, immediately after the guests have departed place a pan of water in the room. By morning all odor will have disappeared.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Tired Family Arrive at Farmhouse.

"What surprise?" Junior and Roderick demanded with one voice when their grandmother said that our neighbors, the Ticers, coming up the farmhouse steps had come to be present at "the surprise."

"Wait and see," I counseled them, as I rose to welcome the humble family whose members or helpers for many years have endeared themselves to us by their loyalty and their other sterling qualities, and if the truth be told, have afforded us much quiet amusement by their vagaries, and by the intermittent feud which Katie and buxom Mrs. Ticer wage concerning the housekeeping.

But Jerry, the lank, gangling son of tall, lean Sam Ticer and his plump wife whom Dicky long ago nicknamed "Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sprat," although he has been careful never to let them overhear the nickname, had spied Roderick and Junior, and was calling "Hello, there kids!" in as delighted tones as if he had been their own age. And indeed in many ways, Jerry's mentality was not much superior to those of the two youngsters.

It was all the signal the two small boys needed. I long since have given up as hopeless the task of enforcing decorum upon Junior's part when Jerry Ticer comes into the offing, and I simply gave a resigned sigh as the two small boys rushed past me with a hurried, ludicrous "Scuse, please," as a sop to the conventions, and hurled themselves upon Jerry, who grinning widely, let them clamber up his lank but powerful figure until they were seated in their accustomed places upon his shoulders.

"I've got another horse to show you fellers," he announced proudly, and we as hosts laboriously suppressed the smiles which Jerry's sagas of his horseflesh invariably bring to our faces. Ever since Jerry was a youngster in his early teens, he has been as inveterate a horse trader as his father before him. But both father and son are either too honest or too gullible — a mixture of both qualities, we suspect—to be successful in the pursuit, and the Ticer pastures always hold from two to five of the most decrepit old horses imaginable which are Jerry's pride and which have afforded Junior many opportunities for riding.

"Oh—h! is that the surprise Granzie was talking about?" Junior demanded, and Harry Underwood echoed with a wide-eyed gravity that almost upset the rest of us:

"Yes, Jerry, is that the 'surprise' that's waiting for us? If it is, I cannot wait much longer to see it. I hope you are going to let me ride it, him, or her."

"Her name's Dora," Jerry said with a loud guffaw which his father echoed.

"He named her after his latest girl," he said, and Jerry crimsoned, but laughed in a fashion which showed that he enjoyed the teasing.

"You stop your fooling, you two," Mrs. Ticer admonished her son and husband with a note in her pleasant voice which both her turbulent "men folk" heed whenever she uses it. "Here, you've only seen that blessed baby but once before and you come in making all sorts of noise. Is she anywhere around? I hope you have not waked her up? No, look! here she comes, the precious!"

For Katherine, as soon as my mother-in-law had turned from her crooning to the frying infant had unobtrusively wheeled the baby carriage inside the house, and now appeared carrying my small daughter immaculate in a fresh frock and newly tied ribbons, and with wide open eyes apparently studying the visitors, that solemn, inscrutable stare of tiny babies which makes one wonder whether they are days young or eons old, trying to adjust their memories.

The next few minutes were given up to the whole-hearted and tender admiration with which most people regard a new baby in their circle of friends and it was not until Katherine had said "Enough," and tucked our tiny princess back in her carriage that even Roderick and Junior—I should write especially Roderick and Junior, so fascinated were they — spoke again of "the surprise."

"Those boys will burst if you wait much longer," Harry Underwood said.

"What's the ratio of words between you and them?" his wife demanded with a grin. "I saw you loosen your belt five minutes ago. But I don't believe it's anything to eat."

"Is isn't," I said hastily, "and when you've finished with—with—"

"Our collation, as they say at the church socials," Lillian subplemented, transferring her gibing from her husband to me.

"Thank you," I countered imperturbably, and went on from there. "We'll go out to see it, if you don't mind."

"Oh! it's something we have to go out to see?" Mr. Underwood retorted. "Well! I'm game whether it's a new litter of pigs, or a tea house after the general style of the Taj Mahal. Nobody shall ever say that H. Underwood, esquire, failed to pump up adequate enthusiasm for any little improvement his country cousins have made on their place.

"You can furbish up your adjectives," Dicky said. "You'll need 'em. Come on—"

He caught my eye and hastily substituted "mother" for the "Madge," I knew he had intended to utter, and as my mother-in-law, with a pleased and proud little smile swept through the door on his arm, I knew that I had consoled her for the unhappiness which her contretemps with Junior over the baby had brought her.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Special bluing, of a purple cast, is offered by cosmetic chemists for the purpose of putting on the silver shimmer to white hair that has yellowed. It is added a few drops to the final rinsing water after the shampoo with melted soap or whites of eggs, beaten slightly and with cold water added.

Stale air means nervousness, fatigue and inefficiency. A human being needs 3,000 feet of fresh air every hour, so somebody says. Since few houses and offices are thoroughly ventilated even in summertime, it behooves the ladies of the beauty chorus to get a certain amount of outdoor exercise every day. A long walk is possible to everyone, even the office worker.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Out of Place in the Office

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am married and work as a stenographer. Should my employer address me during office hours as Mrs. Blank or Rose?

2. How should he address me when his wife and he and my husband and I go out together in the evening?

I address him as Mr. Blank during office hours and them as Mr. and Mrs. Blank when we go out in the evening. Am I correct?

3. When he talks to me of his wife during office hours how should he refer to her, as Mrs. Blank, my wife, or Bertha?

READER.

1. Your employer should always address you as Mrs. Blank in the office, whether or not you know each other well enough to be known to each other by your first names socially. The use of first names is thoroughly out of place in an office, that is, between employer and employed. Except for errand boys and girls.

2. Since you address him as Mr. Blank when you see each other socially, when you four dine together, you should most certainly not permit the use of your first name by him in the office.

3. Either "my wife" or "Bertha" is correct. It is not correct for him to refer to his wife as Mrs. Blank, except to servants or to tradespeople.

Well Wishing a Friend

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine is giving a dance for her pupils and as this is her first dance, I would like to send her flowers. I don't know the proper wording to put on the card. Is it congratulations, or wishing you success, or what would you suggest? G. G.

If you know her very well, I suggest that your message be something like this: "Every dearest wish for your concert. I am sure that it will be a superb success." If you do not know this friend well enough to send such an enthusiastic message, perhaps you would like to write on your card: "Friendliest greetings and all good wishes," or "Every good wish for your concert."

TRAINING OPENS AT MT. GRETNA

CAMP KEMP, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 13.—(INS.)—Blaring bugles today tumbled 3,000 soldiers of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard, out at daybreak today for the start of basic drill and small arms training at the annual encampment of the citizen-soldiers.

Rifle companies of the 1st Battalion, the 109th and 110th Infantry regiments from Scranton, Washington, Monongahela, New Brighton, Somerset and Monessen, practiced with rifle and machine gun on the big range.

The 2nd Battalion, comprising troops from Altoona, Mt. Pleasant, Indiana, Washington, Clymer, Scranton, Carbondale, East Stroudsburg and Honesdale, got basic rifle practice leading up to qualification for marksmanship grades. Targets in the rifle pits were operated and firing scores checked by the 3rd Battalion, troops from Berwick, Milton and Williamsport.

A flank guard problem, culminating in a fire fight, was the lot of the 3rd Battalion of the 111th Infantry, with troops from Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Blairsville, Waynesburg and Latrobe in the mimic combat. Brig. Gen. Edward Martin, commanding the 55th Infantry Brigade, made an inspection of the units in the field for the opening drill day.

Girl Swimmer 'Dead' For Hour Revived

PORT HURON, Mich., July 13.—(INS.)—It felt funny, but I wasn't frightened. This was the statement of Kathleen Morrison, 17, today after her heart stopped beating when she became exhausted while swimming in Lake Huron. The girl was "dead" for an hour after she was taken from the water.

Miss Morrison described her "death" as a "dreamless sleep." Doctors had given her up for dead, but she was later revived and completely recovered.

Fire Following Bomb Blast Razes Home

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—(AP.)—Fire which followed the explosion of a bomb wrecked the home of Alimino Frunzi, a general contractor, in the Germantown section today. No one was injured, Frunzi being away with his wife and six children.

Fire officials said the blast was caused by a dynamite bomb and that every room in the house, excepting the bedrooms, had been sprayed with gasoline, three small barrels of which were found in the dwelling.

Separated Twins Continue to Gain

BALTIMORE, July 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Albert Foster's "Siamese" twins, who attracted nation-wide attention when they were born Tuesday with their bodies connected, have gained a quarter of a pound, Mercy Hospital physicians said. If they continue to increase in weight another operation will be performed within the next few days. In the first operation the fleshy ligament joining their bodies was severed.

The mother continues to improve.

Pittsburgher Saved After Fall in Creek

CATAWISSA, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—Forty minutes of resuscitation work by two local boys brought Leroy Long, 20, of Pittsburgh, to consciousness today after he had fallen from a trestle into Catawissa Creek. The boys saw Long fall and pulled him from the creek. Long was a laborer at a road construction project near here.

PLAN 50-YEAR FIGHT ON RUM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—(AP.)—A fight to last 50 years, if necessary, to free the nation from the "curse of intoxicating liquor," was in the making as the Christian Endeavor Society of the United States went into business sessions today.

The golden jubilee convention, by resolution yesterday, changed its slogan, adopted in 1911—"A saloonless nation by 1920"—to read "A nation freed from the curse of intoxicating liquor if it takes 50 years to bring it to pass."

By acclamation some 10,000 delegates voiced their approval of a resolution carrying the new slogan and denouncing "the unwarranted attacks that are being made by selfish interests upon the present generation of American youth."

SEES TWO HURL MAN TO DEATH

NEW YORK, July 13.—(INS.)—The police department was today checking a story told by Robert Hulsert, an ex-convict, to the effect that he saw Traugott F. Keller hurled in front of a subway train by two men last Friday morning an hour before Keller, chief engineer of the dock department, was to give further testimony before the Seabury committee which is conducting a legislative inquiry into the affairs of New York City. Shortly after Keller's death, the police announced that he either "fell or jumped" in front of the train.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney indicated he is skepical of Hulsert's statement, made in affidavit form. He cannot understand why Hulsert waited two days before revealing what he claims he saw on the subway platform. Then, too, Hulsert has a police record. He served brief penitentiary terms in New York, New Jersey and Maryland for passing worthless checks five years ago.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

"The Goldbergs," a sketch depicting the joys, sorrows, ambitions and situations that go to make up the human drama of family life, has its premiere on WCAE tonight at 7:45 . . . sponsored by the folks who pay Amos 'n' Andy . . . Molly, the mother, is the family philosopher; Jake, the father, is an impetuous but lovable character. Rosie, the daughter, and Sammy, the son, are typical modern children . . . the sketch attained high success as a sustaining network feature . . . Marion Talley, soprano, deserts her Colby (Kan.) farm to sing the lovely Polonaise from "Mignon" for KDKA's audience at 10:30 . . . also the old Scotch melody, "Comin' Thru the Rye."

Darrell V. Martin

* * *

Always when we think of Marion Talley and the unjust criticism sometimes levied at her, we recall O. O. McIntyre's paragraph written a few days after her debut:

"Had Marion Talley come to the Metropolitan bearing the 'European stamp' and perhaps a marmoset on her sleeve, she would have received unstinted praise."

So say we and bank our judgment on the way Marion sings the Polonaise tonight.

* * *

* * *

The Red Arrow Quartet held a poll among railroad men for their favorite hymn. "Life's Railroad to Heaven" was the winner and the Red Arrow boys sing it on KDKA at 6 tonight.

* * *

The Red Arrow golfers bowed to KDKA in a tight match at the East Palestine (O.) Country Club Saturday . . . Lloyd C. Thomas, commercial manager of KDKA, has the proof in motion pictures . . . of course there's some lost motion here and there, particularly with Frederick G. Rodgers who, being English, spent most of the day at the nineteenth tee . . . Frank Weis played all 18 holes with the same ball and someone said that was a record . . . Young George Ludlow borrowed a set of clubs from a news hound who hangs out at the morgue . . . they were all deadwoods . . . score, 110.

Studio Lights

How about naming those streets in Radio City for prominent stars of the air? Say, Rue de Vallee, Gene and Glenn drive, etc. . . .

John Comerford, NBC tenor, recuperating in the city from a short illness, stepped to bat for KDKA this afternoon when Harry Royale was called away by the sudden death of his 16-year-old son in Canton, O. . . .

Almeda Babcock, the 21-year-old parachute jumper, has lots of grit and nerve in the air, but only a lithe Albertina Rasch handshake in the studio . . .

Those "Sisters of the Skillet" are now trying to solve their biggest problem . . . when to show up for a broadcast . . . the latest schedule has them on WJZ Wednesday morning and KDKA Thursday night only . . .

Christening of the United States Navy dirigible Akron by Mrs. Herbert Hoover at Akron, O., is to be broadcast by WCAE and WJAS on Saturday, August 8, at 3:30 . . . the manner of ceremony has been changed . . . instead of cracking a bottle of liquid air over the nose of the ship, Mrs. Hoover will release white pigeons from a cage . . .

A revival of old-time blackface minstrels, directed by Pittsburgh's own Ollie Riehl, makes the third in a series of experimenial programs on NBC-KDKA Wednesday morning at 9:30 . . .

Many radio hearts were saddened this morning with the news that Lloyd Drake had been killed in an automobile accident near Youngstown, O. Lloyd sketched most of the artists around local studios and always was in demand for special work at Christmas time. He was a splendid fellow.

Cab Calloway, who comes to town Friday (KDKA), plays on WGAR, WENR at midnight. . . .

NBC reports that less time is being devoted to dance music, more to sketches and the classics.

Awake, Jules Verne!

NBC and CBS, having conquered the skies, are now about to explore the ocean floor. CBS is to broadcast from a diving machine, designed for the recovery of sunken treasure, on Saturday, July 25, when it goes 300 feet below water off New London, Conn. This machine is to be used by its inventors in recovering several million dollars in gold, silver and jewels lying in the wreck of the steamship Merida, 240 feet under sea off Cape Charles, Va.

When an ingenious rescue contrivance for disabled submarines is tested Thursday, July 16, WCAE, in Pittsburgh, is to carry the NBC program from Long Island. James Wallington will go to the sea's bottom in the submarine S-4. John S. Young will describe the descent of the submarine and carry on a two-way conversation with Ezra McIntosh, who will go to the rescue of the submarine in a bell-shaped chamber weighing 16,000 pounds and equipped with electric lights.

The chamber will attach itself to the S-4, a hatch will be opened and members of the submarine crew will transfer to the rescue chamber to be hauled back to the surface.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, July 13.—Busier and busier grow the broadcasters. Starting their stations at 7:30 a. m. and striking up their bands until 2 a. m. there are only about five hours out of the 24 when the ether isn't palpitating with rhythm.

Precious little time or opportunity for sleep these nights for either broadcaster or listener. The broadcaster has to keep up with the Joneses at other stations, has to lure all the dance bandmen he can into his camp, has to set them to work at what was once known as bedtime.

The listener has to hear them whether he wants to or not. If he seeks the refreshing virtues of his couch the neighbors are sure to keep him awake with their attendance upon the great god jazz. If he shuts his window he soon gasps for air. He gives up, gets up, turns on the din. What's the diff?

Broadcasters have not been successful in signing mattress makers to their commercial contracts. They couldn't be under the circumstances. The logic of the mattress men would be too bitter, too irresistible for them. How can the mattress men invite people to sleep when the broadcasters are intent on keeping them awake? There is, of course, no answer.

There was a time when the broadcasters called it a day at midnight. Now at midnight bands are going at full blast airing the latest hosannas of Broadway and some not so late. Even the snootier hotels have joined the insomnia movement. I suppose it is the vacation spirit that is responsible—a vacation spirit that is becoming general throughout the year. The vacation spirit, as you know, is fostered by the hotels and restaurants and the resorts and playgrounds within easy reach of town.

A DINNER A DOLLAR an A & P scholar

In times like these, when money isn't so plentiful as it might be, every woman is studying ways and means of stretching incomes to cover a multitude of things. Dinners and dollars are being examined more closely this year than ever before.

As a result, the old superstition that the best food must be high in price is wearing pretty thin. For, when a woman starts thinking hard about getting her money's worth, it isn't long before she's in an A & P store. And, once there, she simply can't believe that good food is expensive.

We admit we haven't as many frills and falderals as lots of stores have. But frills come high in grocery stores, and we find we can sell better things to eat at lower prices without them. Our regular customers look at it just about the same way we do—and so will you, if you go into that A & P store near you and cast a cool, scholarly eye over the food there.

Patricia Pitt

Around this time of year everyone is out of town, and consequently, nearly all the social activity is found out of town.

Pittsburgh folks will be scattered to the four winds before the summer is ended, and they'll be busy every minute of the season, with a wedding here, and an engagement party there, until the entire smart set will be caught in a maelstrom of entertaining.

And there will be several Pittsburgh folks I'll wager, who'll attend a smart wedding at Bar Harbor, Me., on August 8. And if there are but few who do go, many more here will be exceedingly interested in it, nevertheless.

The wedding will be that of Elizabeth Brenton Kent, daughter of the Atwater Kents, and Daniel Allen, of New York, which will take place in the Kent summer home at Bar Harbor. The bride-elect made her debut two years ago, and last year was honored by being presented at court, and this year she will complete the circle, with her marriage. And among the Pittsburghers who may motor to the wedding are the William H. McAfees and their daughter, Helen.

* * *

And still more Dan Cupid news. Although the definite day has not been announced, the first week in September will bring the marriage of Elisabeth Stuart, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Emmert Christopher Stuart, of "Hawthorne," Winchester, Va., and Robert Maurice Trimble, Jr., son of the Robert Maurice Trimbles, of Brighton road, Ben Avon.

To Wed in September

Announcement was very recently made, you know, of the betrothal of Margaret Shaw Rose, daughter of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, to the bridegroom-elect's brother, William Hamil Trimble.

* * *

Many informal parties are being given in honor of Margaret Shaw Rose, whose engagement to William Hamil Trimble has been announced.

Honor Guest

Hester Harton Browne gave an informal supper party last night in her honor at the Sewickley Heights home of her parents, the Richard Hollyday Semples. On Friday night Barbara Irwin, daughter of Henry Taylor Irwin, of Edgeworth, gave a similar party.

Margaret, who's the daughter of the Don Roses, will leave this week for Ahmic Lake, Canada, the Rose summer place. On Saturday night Madelaine Alexander, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, entertained with a dinner, followed by dancing, at the Allegheny Country Club.

Miss Nancy Shinkle, niece of Miss Ruth Benney, of Kentucky avenue, and Scott Cook McCandless were married Thursday in the home of Miss Anna Moody Browne, of Kentucky avenue, by the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McCandless will live here.

Miss Lois Ann Alter Weds W. A. Stewart, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Riley Alter, of New Kensington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lois Ann Alter, to William Alvah Stewart, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Stewart, of Pittsburgh and Coraopolis Heights, which took place at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of New Kensington. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Herbert A. Baum, pastor. The altar was decked with ciboutium ferns, palms and pink and blue larkspur, gladioli and blue delphinium. Mrs. Ruth Brown played the wedding music, and Mrs. Eleanor Van Scoten Bates sang. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of white crepe de chine over taffeta, fashioned in the mode of 1900. Her veil of tulle also belonged to her mother, and was finished with a cap of rose point. She carried Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Samuel Ashe Alter, a sister-in-law of the bride, who wore pink net trimmed with blue, and a pink hat. Her colonial bouquet was of pink and blue garden flowers.

The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink and blue point d'esprit over taffeta, with white hats and lace mitts, and carried colonial bouquets in blue and pink. They included Miss Emma Snodgrass, of Rochester, Pa.; Miss Ann Thompson and Miss Mary Joy Alter, sister of the bride, of New Kensington; Miss Marjorie Ashe, Miss Jane King and Miss Theresa Clingerman. Her veil of silk net was finished with a cap of lace caught with orange blossoms, and she carried white Killarney roses, bouvardia and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Mansfield K. Talley, of Westminster, Md., as matron of honor, wore pink crepe having a peplum at the hipline and bolero cape. She carried pink roses and delphinium.

The bridesmaids included Mrs. Vincent Saccamano, sister of the bride, who wore peach embroidered net, and Miss Florence Hamill, of Hubbard, O., bride's cousin, in nile green embroidered net. They carried yellow snapdragons and Pernet roses. The others were Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Valley Stream, L. I., in blue net and Mrs. Lynn Hemphill, of Apollo, yellow net. They carried orchid sweetpeas and larkspur.

Bridal Party

Arthur Bean, of Norristown, served as best man, and the ushers were Clifford Aker, brother of the bride; Gordon Brown, of Norristown, brother of the bridegroom; Mansfield K. Talley, of Westminster, and Arnold Vreeland, of Cranford, N. J.

The bride's mother wore white chiffon with a corsage of deep red roses, and the bridegroom's mother chose flowered chiffon and wore cornflowers and lilies of the valley. George Brisbin sang, accompanied by Miss Bernice Work, cousin of the bride.

Parents of 16 Use Alphabetical Name System

BOWMAN, Ga., July 13.—(AP.)—For family nomenclature Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ginn, who live near here, recommended the alphabetical system, especially for a family with 16 children.

Relative ages, they find, are easily called to mind and all element of error virtually is eliminated in giving a complete enumeration.

Their children are named as follows: Brodie, Corbin, Dorcas, Elmira, Fezzan, Gregor, Hassie, Ithmar, Jessie, Kester, Lisbon, Manson, Nelson, Ornice, Pascal and Quaver.

The family's aversion to the letter A was unexplained.

CHARGES BOGUS U. S. FIGURES

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Secretary Lamont today called on the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce for a full statement on the controversy which resulted in the discharge of Dr. Ray O. Hall, former economist of the department.

Hall, in a letter to the secretary made public last night, charged the division of finance and investment had suppressed facts and falsified figures used in computing the balance of international payments.

The secretary said that any further comment from the department on Hall's charges would depend on the nature of the statement.

Hall in his letter claimed that the estimate of $733,000,000 for net exports of capital during 1930 was "greatly exaggerated" and that statements as to prohibition's effect on tourist travel to Canada and the influence of the Smoot-Hawley tariff on merchandise imports were suppressed.

RUNAWAY GIRL MAY STAY HERE

Mary Hatama, 16, held here for Detroit police, who said she had stolen $135 from her mother there, may get her wish that she be taken from her mother's custody and placed in a guardian's care.

Her uncle, John Lebonsky, of South Second street, Duquesne, went to Central Police Station this morning and said he had seen a picture of his niece in the Sun-Telegraph and read the story of her difficulty.

He said he would try to get her mother to relinquish any claim to her and to drop the charge filed for taking the $135. If he can do this, he told police, he will arrange a home for Mary here.

Mexican Students Crusade on Jazz

MEXICO CITY, July 13.—(AP.)—A committee of National University students today published a manifesto calling upon Mexicans to rebel against American customs and to develop Mexican culture. The manifesto said:

"Substitution of native music by jazz and blues assumes the proportions of traitorship to the country. We must fight imperialism in its many disguises, such as talking pictures in English, jazz bands and 'good will.'"

NOVELTY SCARVES TO MARK AUTUMN EVENING FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 13.—More than ever does the scarf tie up with the evening mode. Earlier in the season the frock with matching but separate scarf was seen everywhere and now comes the frock with the scarf attached and creating the necessary trimming. In some cases, the scarf forms the entire bodice and surely no scarf could be called upon to do more important work than that. When the scarf forms part of the silhouette the line is always a softly molded and pleasing one and the loose ends of the scarf generally provide the jaunty note that is in marked contrast to the rest of the silhouette. Many of the new frocks will be marked by novelty scarf treatments. By its scarf shall you recognize the early autumn, 1931 evening dress.

* * *

WITHOUT MORE ado we are showing you a sketch of two dresses, each one featuring the scarf as the integral part of the silhouette or trimming. The model to the left is a dull black crepe dress from Chanel. Scarves both floating and appliqued are the sole trimming of this very smart model. The scarfs are twisted and knotted at the front. The two floating ends from the topmost scarf are crossed in back.

* * *

PANTAGES CASE TO BE DROPPED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 13.—(AP.)—District Attorney Tom Whelan announced last night he would request Superior Judge J. N. Turrentine to dismiss conspiracy and morals charges against Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire theater magnate, and three co-defendants here today.

The prosecutor said he believed a retrial of the sensational "girl market" case would be "an unwarranted expense to the county."

The jurors disagreed after an 18-day trial of the case last month. Whelan said that because of the showing made of the past life of Lydia Nitto, youthful complaining witness, he was convinced that a jury would never agree on a verdict of guilty.

Pantages was charged with conspiring with Jesse H. Shreeve, San Diego business man, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann to bring Miss Nitto here from Hollywood to a hotel party last October 30.

2 SHOT IN HEN RAID DIE

ALLIANCE, O., July 13.—(AP.)—Two men were dead and another was in a critical condition today while authorities prepared first-degree murder charges against two others as a result of a gun battle Thursday night on the George Wallace farm between farmers and alleged chicken thieves.

George McPeek, 44, farm hand, died yesterday; Wallace, whose condition became worse during the day, was at the City Hospital, while his son, Owen, who aided Wallace and McPeek in the battle, was suffering a bullet wound in his arm.

John Johnson, 38, Negro, who was in the chicken coop when the farmers shot him, died in a Canton hospital Friday.

Two other Negroes, Earnest Tinker and William Reese, awaited the murder charges in the county jail at Canton where they were taken from Alliance when it became known that McPeek's condition was hopeless and feeling against the suspects was growing.

SEATTLE HOLDS RECALL VOTE

SEATTLE, Wash., July 13.—(INS.)—Mayor Frank Edwards faces a recall election today with operation of the city-owned power and light plant the principal issue.

Four months ago, on the eve of the regular city election, the mayor discharged J. D. Ross, superintendent of the City Light Department since the infancy of the utility.

Friends of public ownership attributed the discharge to the efforts of Ross in behalf of a charter amendment, giving the City Light Department authority over its own engineering work. The subsequent election saw the charter amendment adopted and three councilmen elected who had campaigned on that issue. Two veteran councilmen who opposed the amendment were retired.

Supporters of Ross immediately initiated the recall movement, and recall petitions were signed by more than 25,000 registered voters.

War in China Looms As Floods Recede

HONGKONG, July 13.—(AP.)—Canton remained quiet today while relief for sufferers from recent floods and speculation on the attacks of Korean mobs on Chinese monopolized the attention of southern insurrectionist leaders.

With the return of flood waters to their natural channels, some military preparations were resumed against a feared invasion of Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist troops from the North. Canton troops were being concentrated in Wuchow and Liuchow for an advance into Hunan Province.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Brenon, 82, writer, globe trotter and mother of Herbert Brenon, motion picture director, died yesterday at the home of her son in the summer movie colony at Malibu Beach.

Until 18 months ago, Mrs. Brenon, widow of Edward St. John Brenon, London drama critic, had traveled extensively, making several trips around the world, contributing to a group of papers a column entitled "Things Quaint and Curious."

Priest in Mexico Escapes Kidnapers

MEXICO CITY, July 13.—(INS.)—Daniel Mesa, kidnaped Catholic priest, telegraphed from Tepeyahualco today that he had escaped from his captors and that he was on his way to Mexico City.

Father Mesa was taken prisoner at Jalapa. He wired that two unidentified men took him in an automobile to a cabin in the woods, three miles from Tepeyahualco, where they threatened him with death if he returned to Jalapa.

Jobless Man Kills Himself in Church

NEW YORK, July 13.—(INS.)—Worry because he was unemployed caused a middle-aged man to commit suicide Sunday before 400 persons in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, investigators said today.

While the services were nearing the end, the man drew a vial from his pocket and drained it of poison. He died shortly after. Papers found in his pocket identified him as John Tabeek, of Brooklyn. He lost his job a year ago.

Distance Lends Movie Capital Enchantment That Home Talent Doesn't See

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.

Distance lends enchantment to this city of make-believe. Young people all over the world yearn to crash the cinema gates, but only six girls and three boys out of Hollywood High School's graduating class of 491 would like a motion picture career.

In times gone by, this school, located in the center of the film capital, has been a rich field for star-material. Among the more recent alumni who have won success are Fay Wray, Alice White, Mary Brian, Karen Morley, Frank Albertson, Marion Marsh, Gladys McConnell and Stanley Smith.

Fay Wray

With the coming of the talkies, the road to fame has presented many obstacles. These youngsters living in the midst of the movie city, and knowing it's problems more or less intimately, are well aware of the fact. They're turning to less complicated fields.

Douglas Fairbanks says when they got to Siam was the first time Chuck Lewis (his trainer) found out the Siamese weren't all twins.

LATEST GOSSIP

Playing bridge in Santa Barbara over the week-end, Marie Dressler drew one of those fabulous hands with 13 spades. And she didn't bid no-trump . . . Carmel Myers (Mrs. Ralph Blum) is renting her Beverly Hills home to another family named Blum. Incidentally, Carmel's attorney husband is studying voice culture with Samuel Kayser (adv.) whom Howard Hughes brought out here to teach Billie Dove the fine art of speech . . . Deductions are going to be in order if Mervyn Leroy and Ginger Rogers don't quit appearing together in public places . . . Marilyn Miller's three weeks' seige in the hospital is over. She went home Thursday . . . Fox's new portrait photographer, Harold Pfyfe, is said to have received as high as $1,000 a sitting in New York. He has another claim to uniqueness. Since a pet dog died four years ago, he has worn a black tie . . . After six years in France, Nina Wilcox Putnam is due here, with her 13-year-old son, to writ about Hollywood for a national magazine. While abroad, Mrs. Putnam wrote and helped direct 32 two-reel educational films . . . Like Ruth Roland, Belle Bennett, Blanche Sweet, Fifi Dorsay and many other cinema favorites, Bessie Love has signed to appear in vaudeville on R-K-O time . . . Emboldened by a string of victories, the First National polo team (Darryl Zanuck, Lucien Hubbard, Ray Griffith and Dave White) will take on the Uplifter's team tomorrow. This is Will Rogers' outfit . . . In the meantime, Arthur Caesar, once hailed as a white hope in polo, continues to ride nothing but nightmares.

SHE CONQUERS

The record set up by Marjorie Rambeau is threatened. Since coming out here on April 6, Madge Evans, former child actress, has played three leads, now is doing a part in "Boarding School," and has just received the news she will be one of Jack Gilbert's leading women in "West of Broadway." The script of this picture has undergone a recent change. In the first version, Jack's doctor told him he had but two months to live, so he took to drink. His sweetheart chucked him. Now she forgets him when he goes to war. The purpose of the episode is to clear the way for Jack to marry Lois Moran.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Cap'n Menke's showboaters of Golden Rod-at-Montrose, on the Allegheny, will show how things are looking "In Old Kentucky" tonight and other nights this week. But we know how they look—past—they look like pretty gals, blue grass and thoroughbred hosses. And there's a snake in the grass, too, who almost gums up the Kentucky Derby. And for good measure, there's vaudeville between acts.

* * *

Small Timer says he, too, used to work before the footlights with a trick mustache, but discarded it because it strained his voice.

* * *

When Fred Waring, whose Pennsylvanians come Friday to the Penn, recently found himself in need of a new bass viol he sent right back to Tyrone, Pa., headquarters for college moosickers. David Rothrock is the new bass viol. His initiatory violations were at State College. There is a Wilkinsburg boy, too, among Fred's bandits—Nelson Keller, who trumps a jazzy trumpet.

* * *

Small Timer says that in the dancing ensemble there is a little cockney lass who thinks encroach is the term for the wife of a cockroach.

* * *

Cab Calloway, who brings his Negro band and revue from the Cotton Club, New York, to the Stanley Friday, replaced the famous Duke Ellington as master of ha-cha-cha at that New York night-life warming-up station.

Small Timer says that people who eat yeast possibly do so in hope of becoming better bred.

A novelty in theatricals will be the showboat cruise of the ocean liner Belgenland from New York to Halifax, beginning Saturday. This is one theater that will carry its own audience—haw-haw. While it is voyaging a new play will be tried out. Lester Allen will be a jester on the boat, and Claire Windsor, motion picture star, and Irene Delroy, musicomedienne, will be among the entertainers.

Small Timer says that if necessity is the mother of invention, a Sunday motor trip will convince she is a mother of a lot of hard-looking kids.

The receipts for Ziegfeld "Follies" in the Ziegfeld Theater, New York, last week are reported the largest for any single week for this production in all the 22 years of its existence. It broke box-office records in the Nixon, too, in each of the two weeks it was here, the previous high marks for any day, any week and any two weeks passing out.

That's why the nation-wide switch to Camels is not confined to any district or section, but is sweeping into every nook and corner of the country.

The cowpuncher on the range, no less than the cosmopolite in his club, now can taste the joy of expertly blended fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos kept in prime smoking condition.

The germ-safe moisture-proof Cellophane wrapping seals in all the natural factory-fresh aroma—seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

As a favor to your throat try Camels in the new Humidor Pack—compare their slow-burning cool enjoyment with the flat brackish taste and bite-and-sting of stale, parched-dry cigarettes.

Smoke factory-fresh Camels for just one day, then quit them—if you can.

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons — Columbia Broadcasting System—every night except Sunday

CAMELS

NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE

● Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along!)

That the N. Y. Times and Tribune were among other leading newspapers which devoted the entire story of the proceedings at Gettysburg to the one hour and 10 minute speech of Edward Everett, closing the account with: "President Lincoln also said a few words."

That the only difference between the songs "Ten Cents A Dance," and "Cigarettes-Cigars"—is a year.

That New Bedford, Mass., is one of the very few cities left with an afternoon newspaper—The Standard—which comes out at 3:30 p. m.

That the average American woman (the Keep Kissable kind) uses, in her lifetime, three times her weight in cosmetics.

That you may now buy corned beef and cabbage, bottled.

That more people die from the whisky cure for snake bites than from the poison. (Says Prof. Ditmars).

That a papa snake may be surprised with 75 children at once.

That a very old man once climbed to the top of the highest mountain in Africa, just to leave a Bible there.

That it is possible to get a sunstroke in the dark.

That there is a hush-house at the foot of a street near the East River in Brooklyn where you get no check for your drinks. You merely tell the cashier how many drinks you think you had.

That to hear Lou Holtz argue it, there is more natural beauty in the Ziegfeld "Follies" than in the Grand Canyon.

That the committee selected to decide on who should be listed in the Social Register receives ballots showing the names of entries. The committee members never know the others on the same board.

That Tid-Bits defines a gossip as a person who isn't worried about the goings-on nowadays, but by the takings-off.

That Morton Downey, who was broke a year and a half ago, was aroused into success by a columnist, who hurt Downey's feelings by paragraphing: "Whatever has become of Morton Downey? You never hear of him any more."

That in Muncie, Ind., the banks charge 5c for each check drawn.

That the Pledge of Allegiance to our Flag has been changed twice. United States replaced America, and then it became U. S. of A.

That auto tires pick up air in warm weather.

That there was a time in Cleveland, Ohio, they say, that fire engines had to pause at "stop" traffic signals.

That Adele Garrison has been writing "Revelations of a Wife" (newspaper serial) for 16 years at the rate of 600 words a day.

That another well-known ciggie will be cellophaned.

That contrary to popular legend, condemned men at Sing Sing are never doped or given likker before the execution. Few, if any, have failed to eat their heartiest meals befor sitting in th Hot Spot.

That if you have a wife you cannot leave more than half your estate to charity. (But who has an estate nowadays?)

That at one time it was a crime in New York if you "carried the torch" for a gal if you weren't married to her.

That the Japanese language only has 48 sounds.

That while in time we will exhaust the world's supply of beef, we never will exhaust the supply of fish.

That it is against the law to make pets of American squirrels.

That the radio chains will dance for you in their bare tootsies if you can offer an acceptable idea for Mr. Ford.

That the Mayflower brought over many "picture brides."

That there are more speakeasies on Tenth Avenue than on all the side streets in New York City. (And only 20 cents a convulsion!)

That if a payee of a check should hold it longer than 24 hours, and the bank goes gung-gung-gung, he must bear the loss.

That Massachusetts is the only State in the Union which bans the desecration or mutilation of foreign flags.

That English prisoners (men or women) are never permitted to see a looking-glass during their terms.

That a parachute is first tested by having it dropped with a dummy, twenty times, from a plane. Then a 170 lb. man tests it.

That girl divers are hired by the Japanese pearl culture stations to dive after oysters. They dive entirely September Morn.

And that the most merciless of the truths is that when you are Not Good on Broadway—they get wise to you too soon.

New Jersey Hotel, Landmark, Burns

CLINTON, N. J., July 13.—(AP.)—The Clinton House, on the state highway, one of the oldest hotels in New Jersey, was destroyed by fire today. The loss was estimated at $65,000.

Helen Johnson Assigned New Film Name

A new Hollywood personality was christened last week when Judith Wood was added to the contract list at the Paramount studios. Formerly known as Helen Johnson, Judith Wood became the actress' official film name when executives of the corporation urged her to select a more appropriate one after they witnessed her performance in "The Vice Squad" and announced that in her a potential star has been found.

BARRACKS USED FOR PRISONS CONGESTED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 13. — Overcrowding of federal prison camps, established to relieve the load on already congested federal prisons, has brought new worries to the Department of Justice.

Officials today admitted conditions at Chillicothe, O., criticized severely by the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission, obtain to some degree in other places where temporary barracks are maintained.

With the advent of prohibition and increase in other crimes the population of federal prisons rose steadily for years, and finally Congress approved a $7,000,000 expansion program. Even this program, it was admitted, would not solve the situation.

CANTONMENT PRISONS

To provide relief while new prisons are being built, the prisons bureau of the Justice Department established prison camps in old World War army camps, including Camp Lee, Va.; Camp Bragg, N. C.; Camp Meade, Md., and Camp Wadsworth, N. Y.

Prisoners are housed in barracks used by soldiers during the World War. Because of the overcrowding of prisons, however, the Justice Department has been forced to double the capacity of some barracks. In some barracks 48 men are housed as compared to 24 during the war.

The increase in capacity is accomplished by double-decking bunks. In its report on the child offender, issued last week, the Wickersham Commission condemned old army barracks at Chillicothe, saying they are in poor repair, crowded, unsanitary and not fireproof. The report said:

"Some bunks are double-decked. There are no chairs in the dormitories. Men must sit or lie on their beds at all times while in barracks."

FEAR MORE CRITICISM

The criticism of the commission, together with exposure of the payment of large sums of money by penitentiary prisoners seeking transfer to camps, has thrown them into the limelight, with the result that the Justice Department is fearful of more criticism.

Admitting the situation is unsatisfactory, but defending the camps, a Justice Department official said:

"Most of the buildings in prison camps are temporary. They are wooden structures, some of the type the Wickersham Commission condemned.

"Only men who have good behavior records and are eligible to parole are sent to camps. The camps are crowded. In some buildings there are 48 men where the capacity originally was 24.

"There have been no epidemics and the health record is good. This is largely due to the rigid physical inspection and the fine medical branch of the prison division.

"Men sent to the camps are required to labor eight hours a day, grading roads and doing similar manual work. They are not allowed outside the camp, which is composed of abandoned enlisted men's quarters, at any time."

The Department of Justice has under construction the Northeast Penitentiary, a southwest reformatory and another institution in Missouri.

2 Soldiers Killed As Train Hits Truck

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 13.—(INS.)—Private Cecil A. Price, 22, of Lakeport, Cal., of the 77th Pursuit Squadron, and Norman W. Woodward, 19, of the 20th Pursuit Squadron, were killed at Mather Field, near Sacramento, when the truck in which they and 12 others were riding collided with a Southern Pacific freight train.

The others were all slightly injured. All were members of the Army Aviation Corps camp near Sacramento.

Keyes to Leave Prison Next Fall

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., July 13.—(INS.)—Only three months more of jail were in store today for Asa Keyes, former district attorney of Los Angeles County, who is serving a sentence for bribery in the Julian Petroleum Corporation scandal.

The State Prison Board granted him a parole from his one to 14-year sentence, effective October 12. Keyes has completed the minimum of his term.

Murren Directs Probe in McKees Rocks Bombing

SHE MISSED HER TARGET

Girl Jumper in Two-Chute Leap at Bettis

MRS. ALMEDA BABCOCK, 21 . . . SET TO FLY UP, JUMP DOWN!

Mrs. Babcock, the only licensed woman parachuter in the U. S., at Bettis Field before her 2,000-feet leap with two parachutes. She landed a half-mile from the field, the big crowd was disappointed.

FIREMAN HURT AS BLAZE SWEEPS HOME

TROOPERS' AID IN BOMB QUIZ WELCOMED

Murren, Assuming Charge In McKees Rocks, Says He Hopes State Police Appear

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren today assumed personal charge of the investigation into the bombing of the home of Thomas J. Conley, 70, reform political candidate, in McKees Rocks Thursday.

As he did so, members of the McKees Rocks Citizens' Committee were conferring with County Commissioner Charles G. McGovern and asking his aid in obtaining state police for an independent investigation.

Murren, informed of a movement to bring state police for an independent investigation, said he would welcome their aid. He added:

"I would be glad to have them. De will co-operate with them. On a case like this we need all the help we can get."

J. J. Driscoll, their spokesman, told McGovern that the committee did not believe Murren nor the borough police were "in earnest" in their efforts to find the persons responsible for the bombing.

BRYAN ASSAILS FOES

Miles Bryan, the Republican boss of McKees Rocks for 40 years, against whom much of the committee's propaganda has been directed, issued a statement today, classifying its members as "hoodlums." He said:

"We are going to give them the worst licking they ever got. No respectable citizen of McKees Rocks has anything to do with that outfit.

"There is only one respectable member and he is Frank E. Wilde. All the rest are a bunch of hoodlums."

MURREN ON JOB

Chief Murren said he would take charge of the bombing investigation Saturday and call on Conley that afternoon. He did not arrive at the home until noon today.

Members of the Citizens' Committee first sought to have state police brought to McKees Rocks to "protect the citizens from the borough police" immediately after the bombing.

They were told by Capt. Albert Carlson, at the Greensburg barracks, to await the outcome of Murren's investigation.

Commenting on this today, Williams said:

"The chief (Murren) has made several statements that his detectives are seeking two would-be politicians who did the bombing on their own initiative to obtain political favors from the Bryan forces.

"How does Murfen know that? If true, then why are not those men apprehended? We have allowed the county detectives ample time to arrest those responsible for the bombing of Conley's home. We are not going to wait any longer."

Driscoll said, after his morning's conference with Commissioner McGovern, that the latter stood ready to aid in obtaining state police if Murren did not make an immediate arrest.

TWO LAWYERS SEEK PLACES ON BENCH

Haggerty Candidate for Common Pleas Judge, and Lencher for County Court

Candidacies of two attorneys for positions on the Common Pleas and County Court benches were announced today. Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty announced for Common Pleas Court and Attorney Ben Lencher announced for the County Court.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, who has been prosecutor in a number of outstanding criminal cases in recent years, today announced his candidacy for judge of Common Pleas Court, stressing the importance of the criminal branch in addition to the civil side of the court. His announcement read:

Mr. Haggerty

"I do not wish to detract from the importance of civil cases, but usually they involve only the property rights of individuals. That a jurist be 'learned in the law,' that his integrity be unquestioned and that he be able to wiegh impartially the issues in the case are all that is required, but on the criminal bench the issues are far more important, far more weighty.

"There the court deals not only with the life and liberty of citizens of the commonwealth, but likewise with the fundamentals that are the basis of organized society and civilization."

Attorney Benjamin Lencher, member of the American Legion, Spanish War Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars, and former assistant district attorney, today announced his candidacy for judge of County Court. He said:

"The County Court of Allegheny County is important in that it is the poor man's court. Usually, civil actions there involve sums of money smaller than those upon which suits are based in Common Pleas Court.

Mr. Lencher

"The people cannot overestimate the social importance of the juvenile and the desertion and non-support agencies are forces for constructive social progress. Their judges may help prevent crime, anticipate social collapse, help form character and do as much to maintain homes and strengthen family ties as any other legal or social force in American public life."

Sunday Traffic Jam Makes All Paths Narrow

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

After being in a Sunday traffic jam even a parson wouldn't argue for the narrow path.

They're all narrow now. There are 30,000,000 motor cars on the road every weekend. And they all reach their destinations with their fenders crumpled like the outside leaves of sunburned lettuce.

We suggest that every owner nail an ironing board on the roof of his car. Then you could get somewhere by walking on the tops of the automobiles.

It would make a splendid boardwalk. And you would get there in time to improve the landscape with picnic plates, empty pickle bottles, greasy wrapping paper and uprooted shrubbery.

Something's gotta be done about the roads. Why not make them one way on Saturdays and the other way on Sundays? We prefer the Graeco-Roman style of touring to the clutch-as-clutch-can.

You don't require gasoline to tour these days. Just get into line and the guy behind will bump you along for miles.

And free wheeling would be an improvement if there was any place where you could get your wheels free.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Germany's got her problem, Mr. Hoover his Farm Board, England her "dole," but Santa Barbara has got real trouble. The "Crusader," anti-prohibition float, won the prize in the parade. The drys claim it was all right to enter it provided it didn't win anything. Now they are going to have the parade held over again with different judges. If the drys win the next one, the finals will be held in neutral territory — perhaps Canada. Mr. Hoover and Vice President Curtis were together yesterday on the Rapidan rehearsing signals for the big game next November.

Yours, WILL.

Woodall and his companion, Edward Peters, 31, of Western avenue, Greentree, were taken to South Side Hospital. MILL INSTALLS NEW ORE SPAN

The new 15-ton ore bridge to be installed at the Edgar Thomson Steel Works of the Carnegie Steel Company at Braddock, through the special control equipment, will be able to move 1,000 tons of iron an hour, operating 24 hours a day and every day of the year. The electric control equipment has been designed and built by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

This is the first such application of electro-pneumatic contractor type of control. In addition to handling ore from cars to storage pile, this traveling bridge will also carry ore to the three blast furnaces. The bridge is being built by the Dravo Contracting Company and is to be put into operation this summer.

Fliers Hunt Man Lost in Mountains

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 13.—(AP.)—An airplane search of the Superstition Mountain range for A. Ruth, 65-year-old former government clerk, of Washington, D. C., missing since June 15, was directed today by his son, Dr. Edwin C. Ruth, also of Washington.

The elder Ruth disappeared while seeking the legendary "Lost Dutchman" mine. Although convinced Ruth is dead, those familiar with the territory believe he did not wander far from the camp, where his heavy boots, field glasses and food were found.

Hospital Fugitive Saved From Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—(AP.)—William Humphries, 21, a textile worker, who escaped from the observation ward of a hospital early today, was captured as he attempted to leap from the Delaware River Bridge, police said.

The youth was arrested last night after he attempted, police said, to throw himself beneath the wheels of an automobile.

BIRTHDAY FETE FOR KAUFMANN

Special birthday ceremonies in honor of "Uncle Henry" Kaufmann, father of Irene Kaufmann, are being held at Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Center avenue, today.

Kaufmann, in Europe, was slated to receive more than 500 birthday greeting cards, sent by officials and friends of the settlement. At an assembly of members of the settlement's summer play school here he was honored by the children for whose benefit he built the settlement in honor of his deceased daughter.

The settlement is holding open house all day, offering free milk to every child visiting its playground.

Fokker to Form New Plane Firm

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane designer and builder, has definitely broken with General Aviation Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, and will form his own company.

He will remain a director in General Aviation, by virtue of his 25 per cent stock ownership. He becomes a naturalized citizen this month.

Blue Law Balks Family's Trip to Summer Home

BALTIMORE, July 13.—(AP.)—The Sunday blue laws and an inquisitive neighbor put an end to plans of Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner to drive to their summer home at Aberdeen.

Two men were placing some of the household goods of the family on a truck when two officers arrived. It was against the law, they said, to load a truck on Sunday, and the station house had received a tip by telephone from a woman neighbor who refused to reveal her identity.

Wagner and the men loading the truck, who he insisted were just helping and did not expect to receive pay, were released for a hearing.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 13.—(AP.)—American Ambassador Culbertson arrived by plane yesterday from Antofagasta, completing the last leg of an 8,000-mile air journey from the United States.

AUTHOR HIDES WITH CHILDREN

CARMEL, Cal., July 13.—(AP.)—Glen "Snap" Nelson, cowboy author, was in hiding in the Monterey hills today with two of his dead wife's children, defying the law and a warrant charging child stealing.

Nelson told friends he would not return until settlement of the children's guardianship had been reached. A third child, a girl, remained at the home of a neighbor while Nelson and his two foster sons "camped out." He said his wife's last instructions were not to relinquish the children to their father, Dr. W. Scott Keyting, of Salt Lake City.

Nelson took the hills once previously. That was after he rode a white stallion through Mayor Herbert Heron's hallowe'en party. His most recent book, "Last Rustler," was a best seller.

To Show Batting Values. • Club Makes Manager.
Buc Gains Wiped Out. Robbie Recalls Orioles.
Reds Put Cards on Top. Captain's Odd Record.

MAY LIST FAILURES TO HIT IN RUNS

IT MAY REMAIN for a minor league to introduce an additional feature in baseball statistics which President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh club, suggested some time ago to other major league men. This is a new column in the averages to show how many times each player came to bat with men on the bases and how many times he failed to meet the scoring opportunity thus presented with a hit. The Pirate owner has long made it a point to include that detail in his own records of the work of the Pittsburgh players, and has urged that it be adopted for general use and made a part of the official averages.

Barney Dreyfuss

Now comes President Dale Gear, of the Western League, one of the most progressive and constructive chiefs in the minors, to urge the adoption of the very same plan, and his suggestion has met with such favor that it is likely to be put in practice in his own league and eventually included in the scoring and average-compiling system in use throughout organized baseball.

GEAR SAYS HE sees a need for such a feature on account of what he terms the tendency of the present table of averages to give a false idea of player values. The method now in use reveals the potency of the hitter to the extent that a "Runs Batted In" column is included to show power, but the number of times the batter failed to drive in tallies is not disclosed.

The Western League president would add a "Men Left On" column to show the impotency in a pinch of some hitters boasting .300 averages, but whose value to their clubs in emergencies is negligible. "For example," he points out in advocating the new column, "any manager would rather own a ball player who hit only .250 and drove in 100 runs during the course of a season than a hitter with an average of .350 who drove in only 50 runs."

WITH A FLOCK of dual bills in the offing, the Pirates are not looking any too promising as a doubleheader club. After four games the last two days they didn't have a victory to show for their labors, losing three and tying one.

The setbacks of Saturday and Sunday went far toward wiping out the recent gains in which the Bucs won six out of seven consecutive games, but perhaps they can get off to a fresh start in the string of six games with the Phillies. One danger now is a threatened return of the old bugaboo that causes the pitchers to let down just when the hitters begin to pick up.

BEFORE SMEARING THE Corsairs twice yesterday, the Reds ran true to form by dropping four games in a row to the Cardinals. The soft picking they always find when meeting Cincinnati has been the main factor in keeping the Cards in first place. Of the St. Louis club's 50 victories up to date, 15, or 30 per cent, were registered against the Reds, and in a total of 17 games with the Howleys the league leaders lost only two. Taking in the latter part of the 1930 season, the Cards have beaten the Reds 28 times in their last 30 games. With only five games more to be played with their pet victims this year, the Missourians will hardly equal during the remainder of the season the percentage they have made so far in the race.

Wilbert Robinson

IS IT THE club that makes the successful manager in baseball, or is it the manager that makes the successful club? That question has been brought up often in the diamond sport and always finds the majority agreeing that no pilot can get anywhere unless he has the right kind of timber.

It's the same as the coaching proposition in football. If a gridiron team makes a fine record its mentor is called a great coach. If the eleven makes a dismal showing the blame is laid at the coach's door. His part is overemphasized in both instances. Everything depends on the material. Strong timber will make an ordinary coach look good, but the smartest mentor in the game can't win unless he has the stuff. It's still quite impossible to get blood out of the well-known stone.

MANAGER WILBERT ROBINSON, of the Brooklyn club, has made some observations on the subject. "What is major league management?" he asks. "Well, you gather your material, and then you decide who are your best men. You organize your club, pick your pitchers. Then it's a question of handling hurlers, when to work them, when to take them out.

"But once the bell rings, the game is largely in the hands of your players. I say that now more positively than ever in my fiftieth year in baseball. It's up to the players. A winning ball club makes the winning manager.

"HERE'S A CASE in point," Robbie adds. "You can check up with John McGraw on it. Ned Hanlon, manager of the old Baltimore Orioles, was a wonderful leader of a wonderful club. Well, his brother died and he had to leave us to settle the brother's affairs. While Hanlon was away, the Orioles won 10 straight games and practically clinched the pennant. That's that about winning managers and winning ball clubs. You can write your own answer."

THE RECENT STORY about an extra-inning game in the Pacific Coast League which lasted from Monday until Tuesday, because it was a night contest and was dragged out until 1 a. m., has been beaten. The Western Association sports a game that lasted from one month to another.

On [illegible] night of June 30, the Independence and Joplin clubs met in a night doubleheader. The second game did not get started until 11:15 o'clock p. m., and it was 12:35 o'clock on the morning of July 1 before it was finished. So a game that began in June was not finished until July.

EDDIE HIRSHBERG, end and captain-elect of the 1931 Pitt football team, will have a unique record behind him when he starts his final year as a Panther gridder. Never in his career at Pitt, either as a freshman or varsity performer, has he been a regular starter in football. Even in basketball it was only on the freshman team, as a guard, that he was a member of the starting quintet in every game.

Eddie Hirshberg

As a freshman in football, Hirshberg was a first-string sub, as Rip Collins and Frank Potts held down the regular end berths. Then Potts dropped out of school and in the spring practice of 1929 Eddie began to show to better advantage.

HOWEVER, THE REGULAR season of 1929 saw Hirshberg on the bench, with the exception of the Allegheny game, though he took a new lease of life toward the finish and his work in the Carnegie Tech number won him a chance to start against Penn State. Last year he got off to a good start, and in the first two games he stood out, winning the right-end position from Collins. But in the closing minutes of the West Virginia game he and his running mate, Jim MacMurdo, were injured on the same play, and both were put on the hospital list. MacMurdo went back after a couple of weeks of inaction, but Hirshberg did not start again until the Penn State event. In the last spring practice, Eddie was shifted to left end and probably will hold down that position throughout the coming season, barring a return of the injury jinx.

TENNIS STARS TO PLAY FOR MANY PRIZES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph-Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships will swing into action on the rectangles at Schenley, Highland, Frick, Olympia and Riverview parks on Monday, July 27, exactly a fortnight from today. Announcement to the above effect was made this morning following week-end conferences involving representatives of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Parks, the Pittsburgh Tennis Association and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the trio of organizations directly concerned in the running off of the long-awaited municipal event.

While the ramarkable success of the 1930 parks tourney, in which no less than 165 racqueters competed, assured continuance of the conclave for the current summer, it was not until the past few days that final details as to dates and other features of the milling were adjusted and submitted for ratification by park and P. T. A. authorities. All important points now have been properly settled, however, and there remains but the task of compiling entry lists and pushing the actual contest to conclusion.

MOORE ENDORSES MOVE

James Moore, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Parks, again has endorsed heartily the move of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in sponsoring the municipal affair.

"I am very glad to lend the support of our office to the public parks tournament," declared the park bureau head when approached for permission to reserve the numerous courts required for the jousting. "The play last year was most successful and was entirely in line with our aim to increase the use and enjoyment of our park facilities. Any project tending to interest the public in the benefits of outdoor recreation, especially in Pittsburgh's parks, has my unqualified approval and I can promise that our bureau will do everything in its power to aid in rendering the 1931 tournament even better than the one that went before it."

Rules governing entry into the parks mixing are quite simple. First off, the aspirant must procure a permit to play tennis upon Pittsburgh municipal courts. Next, he or she must have no affiliation carrying with it right to use of privately operated rectangles. These are the prime and, indeed, the lone prerequisites for combat. There is no entry fee, nor is there any age limit. The usual tourney regulations of the United States Lawn Tennis Association will, of course, prevail as to the conduct of hostilities.

SINGLES PLAY ONLY

Branches of skirmishing to be included on the program will be men's and women's singles alone. The additon of doubles to the card was seriously considered, but was at length rejected because of the unwieldliness of dual debating in a meet with an exceptionally large throng of entries, many of whom are persons employed throughout the day and who cannot, therefore, engage in matches until late afternoon or early evening.

Following the system inaugurated last campaign, there will be a week of preliminary frays in the six parks named in the initial paragraph. Masculine and feminine champions of the individual parks

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: THE REV. SAMUEL HEMPHILL'S PHENOMENAL MEMORY—Rev. Samuel Hemphill, of Northern Ireland, a Presbyterian minister, orator and author, who was a friend of Benjamin Franklin, was noted for a memory so phenomenal that he could repeat a sermon or oration verbatim after hearing it once. Many an orator of his time was thunderstruck to see the minister rise and repeat word for word a lengthy speech, which the orator knew to be his exclusive brain child. HIGH COST OF REX BEGONIA SEED—In the wholesale catalog of Vilmorin-Andrieux Company, France (1931), Rex Begonia seed, mixed, is listed at $28.50 per 1-32 of an ounce (54,000 seeds). At this rate, one pound would cost $14,592.

ELLIOTT MAY FACE WOOD ON MOUND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A couple of low-spirited ball nines rolled into Pittsburgh this morning for the purpose of opening a six-game series at the Oakland Orchard. The Pirate and Phillies came from opposite directions, yet there was a sameness to their morale, for each carried the positive sting of a double defeat administered during the Sabbath. And when you lose two in one day, you do not laugh off the effects in one night.

The Buccos and Quakers will get their long scrap underway this afternoon with a single contest. A doubleheader is set for tomorrow, this to be followed by single games on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The first clash of the series may bring a twirling duel between Jim Elliott and Charley Wood, both of whom are lefthanders. Wood has yet to start a contest at the home lot, but Ens may call on him today in the emergency, many of the Bucco sharpshooters having been used up in the two doubleheaders of the past two days. Remy Kremer also is available.

BUCS SMEARED

When a club loses two battles in one day to a team like the Reds, it is not exactly fitting to attempt explanations.

The Reds smeared the Pirates in the first game of yesterday's double bill at Redland Field, 14 to 7. The second defeat sustained by the Pirates came after they had amassed a two-run lead in the eighth round. Loose play enabled the Reds to forge ahead in the home half, but Pie Traynor's hit forced a deadlock in the ninth and sent the contest in extra period. The nightcap was decided in favor of the Howleymen in the eleventh round, 6 to 5.

SIX TOURNEYS CARDED TODAY

Six tournaments are under way today on district courses as a lively week of golf begins. The largest field is to be found at the Pittsburgh Field Club, where Guest Day is being celebrated by the women, and more than 200 are expected to tee off before night falls again. Play is at 18 holes.

This afternoon at the Schenley Park municipal links Francis Lally and John Pasikowski, who tied at 134 in the 36-hole qualifying round for fourth place on Pittsburgh's national public links team, will play at 18 holes to see which is to make the trip, early next month, to the championship meet at St. Paul. Ken Witherow is in charge.

Stanton Heights Golf Club is the scene of the Duquesne University Alumni Association tournament, while the Penn State Alumni are competing at the Castle Shannon Golf Club.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association is holding its biweekly affair at the Hannastown Golf Club, and the Builders' Exchange is playing at Wildwood.

Tomorrow a large field is expected for the Guest Day event for women at the Shannopin Country Club, 150 entries already having been received. Mrs. W. J. Lacock is in charge.

Jack Stewart, professional at Thornburg, yesterday established a new course record of 65 for that nine-hole layout. He was playing with Charley Parous, caddiemaster, who had a 69; Sam Musico, who had 75, and H. L. Friedman, who scored 76. Stewart's card:

By HARRY KECK

Tony Herrera, the Mexican lightweight flash, who has been a consistent winner here and has become quite a favorite with the Pittsburgh district fans, meets what shapes up as the toughest foe he has been called upon to face in these parts when he boxes Johnny Jadich, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight.

Tony Herrera

Some of Herrera's opposition here has not been particularly keen, but he will have no part of a soft touch before him tonight. Jadich is tall and rangy, like Herrera himself, and can box and punch. He has been in there with the best of them, and enters the ring with at least an even chance against Tony. It looks like the best balanced main bout between out-of-town boxers to be put on here in some time.

Johnny Jadich

Indian Tiger Joe West and Jack Tracey, middleweights, box the eight-round semi-final, and Andy Andrucci and Jimmy Reilly are in the second bout, with Johnny Montebano and Paul Balint appearing in the opener, scheduled for 8:45.

Between Rounds

Boxing Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland will render a decision today on the argument between the Meyers Bowl and Bunny Buntach, manager of Buck McTiernan, about whether or not the contract signed for a McTiernan-Jimmy Belmont bout at the Bowl next Monday night shall stand as drafted. The Bowl wants to cut McTiernan's 30 per cent arrangement as a result of his recent defeats by Donald Fagg and Ted Yarosz. A meeting was held in the commission office Saturday night at which it was decided the bout would go on, but the commissioner decided to withhold his decision on the financial end pending another meeting late today.

Marty Gornick, Whitaker's promising young lightweight, appears in one of two 10-rounders at Dayton, O., tonight, with Jimmy Kelly, formerly of the North Side, boxing Spug Meyers, of Pocatello, Idaho, in the main event. Joey Lawrence is Gornick's opponent.

Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth, wants to box Ted Yarosz again. He recently lost to Ted at McKeesport after having really beaten him at the Moose Temple, although the decision went against him. "I gave Yarosz a chance to redeem himself after that Moose fight," the Tiger said today. "And all I ask is the same opportunity now. If I don't beat him this time the fans at least will see a great fight."

Moving pictures of the recent Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight championship bout in Cleveland will be shown at the Fulton Theater for a week beginning Friday morning. A preview is scheduled for the "experts" at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The card will be completed today for the Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Erickson show at Hickey Park Thursday night.

SANDLOTTERS BEGIN SECOND HALF RACES

By TOM BIRKS

With new races ahead of them as the second half schedules get under way, much interest is anticipated in the playing of twilight games of the near future.

The West Penn and City leagues start their second half program this evening, and, as the two outstanding loops in the district, are expected to play to banner crowds.

At Swissvale, Community, under the leadership of Ed Walsh, will have Linwood as its opposition. Linwood is considerably strengthened, and Tri-Boro fans are certain to see a real battle.

BUICKS PLAY THOMAS

In the City League, the North Side Buicks drop off at Bloomfield to hook up with J. L. Thomas, and Bridge fans will have a fine opportunity to see how Andy Swetonic handles a team.

The North Side Civics travel to Olympia Park to battle Book. This will give Olympia Park fans an opportunity to see how the changes made by Eddie Buch will work out.

News from Homewood indicates Johnny Pearson may be lost for the remainder of the season. He is still feeling the effects of his sickness prior to the season, and unless Hank Daly is up against it, he will play no more.

Whitey Latusick, McKees Rocks catcher, is back from his Hazleton session. Whitey probably is fed up with the eastern part of the state. Jack Snyder, the McKeesport boy, is said to be signed for the receiving duties.

CHOLKO SIGNED

Latusick will not remain idle long. Last season he was with Book Shoe. Since Latusick went away, Book has had Collins behind the bat, and he seems to be filling the bill. Latusick may hook up with another club.

Johnny Cholko, Rox outfielder, has signed with Homewood for the second half, and should make a good man for Hank Daly. The Cholko boys, Joe and John, are real fighters, and always shoot the works.

The second half race in the Westmoreland County loop gets under way this evening, and all 10 clubs will see action. It is one of the finest loops ever organized.

In yesterday's games J. L. Thomas nosed out Vandergrift, 7-6; Homestead Aces defeated Greenfield, 12-7; Idlewild upset Mullins, 5-1, and East End Cardinals copped from the Hollands, 4-2.

The Brown Stars bumped Grandview, 5-1; Fineview beat the North Siders, 7-4; Weber defeated the Orioles, 8-4; Banksville toppled St. Clair Frogs, 9-1, and Swissvale nosed out Elrama, 4-3.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The National League goes into a death struggle this week, with the seaboard clubs going inland, and when you've got the Giants and Robins mingling with the Cubs and Cards, you've got a four-cornered war.

Nick Altrock

In fact, for the next two weeks you should get a raincheck for every game that ain't a crucial series. All I can say is God pity the umpires in a race like that. Back East our Washington club will catch the Athletics as soon as that Grove-Earnshaw-Walberg pitching combination stops for oil and grease. Connie Mack has rotated those boys so frequently they must be all dizzy now. Connie hasn't got a bull pen this season — it's a squirrel cage.

LOCAL MERMAIDS IN TITLE MEET

Pittsburgh will be represented in the National A. A. U. women's outdoor swimming championships in New York beginning Wednesday by Miss May Cutnall, formerly of the Homestead Library A. C., now swimming unattached, and Miss Lenore Kight, of the Homestead Library.

Miss Cutnall will compete in four events, the backstroke, medley and 220-yard and half-mile free style races. She is rated the best all-round woman swimmer in Pittsburgh, and has had sufficient competitive experience to give her a good chance against the field, especially in the backstroke and medley. It is reported she may make a connection with the New York Woman's Swimming Association to represent that famous organization in future meets.

A re-chceck of the scoring in the A. A. U. swimming meet at Lake Elizabeth, North Side, last Saturday, shows that the Willows team finished third with nine points and not next to last as announced. Homestead Library won the event with 34 points, the Coyne A. C. was second with 26 and Kennywood Park was fourth with six. Other teams to score were Uniontown Y. M. C. A. and Downtown Y. M. C. A.

LEVEY, STORTI FINED

DETROIT, July 13.—(AP.)—Jim Levey and Lin Storti, infielders with the St. Louis Browns, were fined $100 and $50, respectively, yesterday for breaking club training rules. In announcing the fines, the club management did not say what infractions the infielders were guilty of.

DECISIVE WIN MARKS FALL OF VINCENT

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—Big Bill Tilden has proved himself king of the world's professional tennis players.

The tall Philadelphian, who used to rule the amateurs, needed only 59 minutes to trounce Vincent Richards, defending champion, in the final round of the United States pro championship yesterday, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1. These two were the survivors of a field that included all of the leading American pros and Europe's two outstanding masters, Karel Kozeluh and Albert Burke.

Only in the first set did Richards seem to have a chance. In this set, he stormed the net to gain a 3-1 and 4-2 lead, but Tilden unleashed the full power of his tremendous service to draw level at 4-4 and finally to win 7-5. After that the match was a runaway for Big Bill.

The doubles went to Richards and Howard Kinsey, of California, who beat Tilden and Frank Hunter, 7-9, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Longwood Bowl Net Tourney Opens

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 13.—(INS.)—With Johnny Doeg, national champion, heading the draw, 64 of the most famous tennis players in the country, with the exception of the Davis Cup stars, who are now abroad, start play today in the annual Longwood Bowl tournament.

Doeg, who was the unexpected victim of Davey Jones, lanky Columbia star, in the New Jersey State championships two weeks ago, was out to win outright possession of the famous bowl.

The transplanted California lefthander was victorious here in 1927 and 1929. A third victory would give him permanent possession.

LEE HANLEY SIGNED

CHICAGO, July 13.—Lee Hanley, quarterback of the Northwestern football team last fall, has signed a contract to play professional baseball with the Indianapolis American Association club.

GERMAN CRISIS CHECKS TRADE RECOVERY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 13. — The impetus of the "managed recovery" was checked last week. Hesitation and weakness in speculative markets resulted partly from the fact that the good news about the moratorium was already out, and also sprang from uncertainties and vagaries injected into the deal as a result of accession to the reservations insisted on by the French.

Mr. Rukeyser

Continuation of critical financial conditions in Germany emphasized the fundamental fact that remedial action based on the near-bankruptcy of a great nation is scarcely a reason for unrestrained optimism. There is an increasing disposition to take stock of economic realities at home and abroad, after several weeks of romantic focussing of attention on political imponderables in the international situation.

GOOD REPORTS

The best reports from the business world come from sources engaged in handling goods moving directly into consumption. The further rise in freight car loadings reflects the demand for consumption goods. The inability of trade in the large to move above the dead center of depression springs from the subnormal character of the heavy industries, which supply capital goods. The disparity between the state of trade for production goods and consumption goods emphasizes the pertinence of proposals for government action to break the deadlock through embarking on a broad-gauged program of public works.

President Hoover's thrust at the wicked bears in the Chicago wheat pit seems a trifle naive coming from one so well grounded in economics as the President. Bears do not make conditions; at best, they merely exploit them. The real menace to the wheat market springs from the huge holdings of the Federal Farm Board, and the uncertainty of the capacity of wheat growers to restrain their production.

Many Amateur Shorts Reported in Market At Present

Quite a few "amateur shorts" are in the market. This is the view in leading commission houses. It is stated that, despite the advises against adopting the bear position, a number of outsiders were encouraged to put out stocks when the reaction started last Tuesday morning. Some of these shorts have covered, while others are holding to their position. The important traders, who have been bearish right along, continue to maintain their short lines.

Bears have been testing the market, although there has been no evidence that they have been willing to follow up recessions with additional sales. One reason may be that their efforts on the bear side did not result in bringing out liquidation to any extent. Had outside selling come into the market when these operators were supplying the list, it is probable they would have pressed the market further. These bears are talking of the selling which will come into the market with the publication of unfavorable earnings for the second quarter or first half of this year. Frequently, when such reports are out of the way, the market rallies again on the theory that the bad news is out and there might be improvement in the future.

Although results are not yet known for June it is indicated that earnings of Raybestos-Manhattan Company in the second quarter will be considerably better than in the first three months of the year when $241,204, or 35 cents a share, was earned on the stock. In well informed quarters it is said that April showed about 14 cents and May 21 cents a share, the two months being equal to the first quarter. There is likely to be a moderate decline in June business because of seasonal conditions.

Commercial solvents is one of the low-priced stocks which has been well bought for several weeks. This is due to the better attitude toward the issue in some important banking quarters, while reports have been heard of a pool having been formed. The action of the stock indicates quite a normal market. Some of the buying has been for cash and the stock taken out of the street's floating supply.

Chicago grain speculators, being much the same natural temperament as the New York stock traders, probably do not take very kindly to the attitude of President Hoover toward the matter of short sales in the wheat market. Inquiry among New York authorities showed that, with few exceptions, the stand was for a "free and open" market on the theory that while restraint on short selling might give the market temporary respite, it would make for an unhealthy condition in the event of any further bad news developing. These observers profess to see the law of supply and demand ruling the grain market as it will inevitably rule any situation, despite temporary interference with its operations.

Observers of long experience point to the decidedly unfavorable statistical position as the main force behind trend of wheat prices. The situation, taken on the basis of Friday's government figures, was set forth in support of this contention. Including an indicated carryover of 300,000,000 bushels, the final estimated winter wheat yield of 713,000,000 bushels and the indicated short spring crop of 156,400,000 bushels, the total of indicated available stocks in the United States is 1,169,400,000 bushels. Taking an outside figure of 700,000,000 bushels as necessary for domestic food consumption, seed for the 1931 crop, etc., it is indicated a surplus of 469,000,000 bushels would remain available for export on the basis of July 1 figures. Only a disaster to foreign crops, it is contended, could serve to change the outlook materially. Hedging of heavy shipments of winter wheat, it is pointed out, has been a most depressing factor of late and this pressure originates with the farmer himself.

Holiday Affects Coal Production

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Total production of soft coal during the week ended July 4 is estimated at 5,961,000 net tons, according to the Bureau of Mines. Compared with the output in the preceding week the decrease, due to time lost in connection with the observance of Independence Day, amounted to 791,000 tons or 11.7 per cent. Production during the corresponding 1930 week amounted to 6,545,000 tons.

TRADE OUTLOOK IMPROVES

NEW YORK, July 13.—A mid-year survey of business by Bradstreet's points out that there are a number of factors in the present situation which give a sound basis for optimism as to the outlook for the last half of 1931.

The survey finds that the most outstanding and basically important thing that has happened since the first of the year was the continuance of the fall of commodity prices.

However, there are some signs of resistance which distinguish the decline of the past half year from the decline of 1930. For two months of 1931, April 1 and July 1, the Bradstreet index has shown increases, whereas there had been a steady decline from October, 1929, to March of this year.

Judging the commodity price movement from another angle, that of the breadth of the upward movements, it is found that more and more commodities are showing monthly advances in the face of the general decline. The total number of these advances in the first six months of this year was 114, which compares with a similar total of 80 in the corresponding period of 1930, and with 66 in the last six months of 1930. Apparently a level of resistance is being reached.

CENTRAL CRUDE OILS CUT

FINDLANY, O., July 13.—The Ohio Oil Company has reduced the market price of Illinois, Princeton, Lima, Indiana, Wooster and West Kentucky crude oils 15c per barrel.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—California crude oil output in the week ended July 11 averaged 523,300 barrels daily, an increase of 12,755 barrels daily over the previous week, according to California Oil World. July oil allowable for California is placed at 487,500 barrels daily, a decrease of 30,425 barrels from June, by the State Oil Umpire.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 13.—Three hundred independent operators in Kansas have voted immediate shutdown of oil wells. Phillips Petroleum Company has shut down its wells in the Oklahoma City field, pending recovery of oil prices.

HOUSTON, July 13.—Hundreds of wells in the Wichita Falls fields are shutting down as unprofitable at present prices for crude oil. West Texas operators are getting together for concerted action on a shutdown until crude prices improve.

California Raisin Campaign Finished

FRESNO, Cal., July 13.—The California raisin pool's campaign for contracts of 10,000 additional acres of raisin grapes has been successfully completed. Completion of the campaign means just $4,000,000 more to California grape growers in the way of advances from the Federal Farm Board on the 1931 raisin crop.

With 85 per cent control, the farm board had agreed to a 2½ cents advance per pound on raisins; without it, only 1½ cents per pound was to have been advanced.

Far East Rubber Stocks Increased

NEW YORK, July 13.—Stocks of crude rubber in the Far East showed an increase, according to cable advices to the Rubber Exchange of New York. Stocks in the hands of Malaya dealers at the end of June totaled 43,010 tons, compared with 41,135 tons in May and 38,188 tons in June last year. Harbor board stocks at Singapore and Penang at the end of June were 4,507 tons, compared with 3,143 tons in May and 4,263 tons in June, 1930.

Business Conditions In Cuba Are Poor

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Business conditions in Cuba were said by the Commerce Department to be at a low ebb. The seasonal let-up in business activity after the end of the sugar grinding season has further aggravated the depression. Numerous indices show the increasing stagnation in commercial and industrial activities throughout the island.

The number of unemployed, already large, is rapidly increasing.

June Locomotive Shipments Down

WASHINGTON, July 13.—June shipments of railroad locomotives from principal manufacturing plants, as reported to the Census Bureau, totaled 19, compared with 26 in May and 81 in June of last year, according to the Commerce Department.

Unfilled orders on June 30, 1931, amounted to 95, compared with 58 at the end of May and 343 at the end of June, 1930.

Forecast Record Kansas Wheat Crop

The indicated production, based on July 1 condition, compared with previous records of 180,000,000 bushels in 1914 and 177,361,000 bushels in 1928.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 13.—After a flurry of nervous selling in the early trading, caused by concern over the German financial crisis, the curb market settled into a dull session today. Declines were reduced, substantially in most instances, and the list marked time, keeping its eye on the foreign news.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Losses Cut — Local Market Steady

EARLY MARKET LOSSES CUT BY RALLY

Upswing Reduces 2 to 3 Point Stock Declines; Trading Quiets Down

NEW YORK, July 13.—The abrupt turn for the worse taken by a financially sick Germany over the week-end found the New York stock market in a hopeful frame of mind today.

With only the New York and London markets open—Berlin being closed as an emergency and Paris closed for a holiday—heavy foreign selling was expected. Both New York and London, however, quieted down after the first flurry, with the New York market making substantial recovery from the lowest. Foreign exchange trading, however, was almost demoralized and German bonds were acutely weak.

In stocks, early losses of 2 to 3 points were roughly cut in half by a midday rally. United States Steel reduced an opening loss of 2½ to about a point.

Trading turned dull after the first half hour, when 400,000 shares were traded.

The week-end news that the Darmstaedter and Und National-bank, one of Germany's four largest, had been forced to suspend, was discouraging to Wall Street, where it had been understood that the difficulties of this institution, rumored for some time, were being taken care of.

In Wall Street, all eyes rested upon Basel, where it was hoped that a plan would be evolved at the conference held at the world bank for an immediate credit to the Reichsbank, sufficient to restore confidence.

Not only the German mark was sharply depressed in the foreign exchange markets, but quotations on such currencies as the pound sterling and the French franc were substantially lower. Exchange traders complained that the situation was so confusing that it was extremely difficult to transact business.

Domestic news was largely ignored, in the excitement over the foreign situation. The week-end decision of Oklahoma Independent oil producers to shut down their wells pending the return of more normal prices, had a steadying effect upon the oil shares.

The announcement that the Interstate Commerce Commission had placed a valuation upon the railroads about three billion dollars higher than in 1921; for the purpose of hearing the railroads' plea for an increase in freight rates, had little market effect.

W. M. Divestment Time Extended

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today extended to January 13, 1932, the time in which the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad must comply with its order and divest itself of its capital stock in the Western Maryland Railway. The commission stipulated that during this period the Baltimore and Ohio must transfer its stock to a trustee, the trustee and the terms of the trusteeship to be approved later by the commission.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 13.—Influenced by Germany's financial crisis and by New York Stock Market weakness, grain prices underwent sharp early setbacks today. In a flurry of stop loss selling, all deliveries of wheat, corn and oats except July corn fell to new bottom records. Opening ¾-1⅜ cents down, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started ¾-2 off and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Almost immediately wheat dropped to below 51 cents a bushel for this month's contracts, and went to within ½ cent of the lowest level ever touched on the Chicago Board of Trade by any future delivery of wheat.

Depression's Effect on Net Profits Surprising

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE ABILITY TO WITHSTAND the effects of a business depression is becoming a new measure of the investment merits of leading corporations. The current business situation is bringing to light some startling information about the types of business which are able to maintain earnings at a high rate during periods of stress.

One of the most striking revelations of the past six months has been the fact that corporations producing essential materials and which form the backbone of American industry do not necessarily show the greatest resistance to the devastating effect of the depression on earnings.

The best results shown during the first half of the year by companies which fall into the class of fundamental industries were in organizations producing foods and in communication companies.

Food Companies Prosper

NATURALLY EVERYONE HAS to eat whether business is good or bad. As a result we find that General Foods and similar organizations will report earnings for the first half of 1931 about equal to those of the corresponding period of last year. Companies making tin cans and tin plate for the food industry earned nearly as much in the first half as a year ago. National Biscuit also is holding its ground.

The business of communication companies has declined to some extent, but the slump has not been as great as in most other fundamental types of business. American Telephone and Telegraph, along with Western Union, will report comparatively small declines for the first half of the year.

Nickel Companies Busy

WHILE IT WOULD naturally be expected that firms supplying anything as necessary as food would do well, it is surprising that companies selling low price confections and soft drinks, which are not necessities, are not in the least bothered by the depression.

It seems that nickels will be spent regardless of business conditions. Thus we find that the Hershey Chocolate Company had the best half year in its history. American Chicle is holding its ground, while Wrigley will report only a slight decline in profit. Coca-Cola will record a gain in its earnings.

Low Prices Help

ONE FACTOR WHICH has helped some of the companies selling products for nickels and dimes has been the low price of sugar. While many other types of organizations have been forced to cut their prices in line with the decline in the cost of materials, these organizations with non-fluctuating prices have been able to keep the savings in cost of materials for themselves.

Among the large industrial organizations which will report only a small slump in earnings will be the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company. Its net profit for the first half was about $2.25 a share compared with $2.85 a year ago. While du Pont's sales in many lines undoubtedly have suffered from the general depression, the development of new products has been an important compensating factor. Constant research work is steadily expanding du Pont's markets. This is readily apparent in the sudden increase in the use of cellophane, although this is only one of many new products made by this company.

National Bank Deposits Show Gain Compared With Last Year

Total deposits of the national banks in the City of Pittsburgh on June 30, 1931, showed an increase of $14,990,447 as compared with the same date last year, but were $38,654,136 below the total reported on March 25, this year, according to the figures submitted in response to the bank calls for the periods. Surplus and profits of the combined institutons on June 30, 1931, were $2,799,404 less than a year ago and $2,696,055 below the total of March 25, this year. Total resources on June 30, 1931, showed an increase of $8,020,668 over the figures of June 30, 1930, but decreased $41,987,539 as compared with March 25, 1931. Following are the comparative figures of the individual banks.

Kitty Shocked by Unpleasant News About Thad

CHAPTER XV.

I was almost seeing red, I was so furious at Peter Thompson.

I could hear his words still ringing in my ears: "You wouldn't be the first good girl to go wrong!"

My only impulse was to slap him—I drew back my hand and certainly would have handed him a good one if he hadn't caught my hand and held me.

"Listen, Katie—don't get me wrong. I didn't say you would go wrong—but I told you a big truth. You are playing with fire and you know it. Let me advise you, even if you do despise me. At least I can remember that once you loved me," Peter pleaded.

"You did once, Katie," Peter persisted.

"Hate me if you wish, but I want to advise you. Cora will be away from you now. Your kind and wise father has passed on."

He was still holding my hands.

"Oh well, Mister Squawker, ladle out your advice and let me go," I said, crossly.

"I want you to be happy, dear," he said, slowly.

"So you think the best way is to call me a—to say——" I stammered and stopped.

"I called you nothing wrong. I said many a good girl had been dazzled by riches and overstepped. What troubles me is that this man Parsons hasn't even proposed——"

"How do you know?" I demanded.

SORRY FOR HIM

"He isn't the sort to propose and not give you a ring. He doesn't seem to intend to marry you—but just to occupy his time pleasantly, or perhaps he is one of the patient sort and—and—" Peter couldn't go on for a moment. Then he said, rather briskly, "Don't let him break your heart, Kitty."

"Thanks, but he won't. He is madly in love with me. We have a perfect understanding," I boasted.

"That is fine, Kitty. Forgive me for being anxious about you. You are practically alone—and I still love you—I shall always love you. I have bought a plumbing business out at Kew Gardens and am going out there to live, but if ever you want me—"

He was forlorn, so miserable, that I felt sorry for him.

"Forgive me, Peter. I didn't mean to lose my temper. I am all right, only sorry it can't be you—we'll always be friends," I promised.

When he left me I felt sorrier than ever for him. Peter had been my first real beau. We had started being good friends when I was 16. I had been fond of him, but I couldn't see being tied down to a poor man all of my days.

I gave Cora all she wanted of the furniture and got rid of the remainder. Viola Carson and I found the cutest little furnished kitchenette apartment imaginable.

Cora had given up work in the Miers establishment when she married Mack Parker, much to Mrs. Miers' regret. I settled down to work again after the excitement of the fashion show, the marriage of Cora and my first gay outing with Thad Parsons after my six months of quiet following father's death.

MALVERN CALLS

One day Mrs. Miers told me that some relative wanted me on the telephone.

"It's Cora," I cried, for she was the only near relative I had left.

"It's a man—it may be her husband," Mrs. Miers said. She discouraged personal telephone calls and I didn't blame her, for otherwise most of the models would be on the telephone half the time.

When I answered the telephone I said, "Hello Mack."

I recognized it at once. It was Forrest Malvern.

"What's the idea of saying you are a relative?" I demanded.

"Thank whatever gods there be—she remembers me sufficiently to know my voice," he cried.

"What do you want, Mr. Malvern?" I tried to be quite severe.

"I want to know who the fortune-favored rival named 'Mack' may be."

"He happens to be my sister's husband. I was told that it was a relative—"

"Had to say that. I know the rules—can't talk with a sweetie during business hours, but can if it's one of the family," and he chuckled.

"Change cars, Mr. Malvern; you are all wrong. I am not your sweetie—and, please, what is it you want?"

"Goodby. Call me again Sunday, when I'm not here—"

"Wait, Katie—don't be like that. I wanted to know if you would let me take you out some evening?"

"Thanks, Mr. Malvern, but no can do. I'm dated up for the next 300 years." I laughed, said a quick "goodby" and hung up the receiver.

Thad would be sore if I went out with Forrest Malvern. I knew enough to realize that. But I wasn't angry with him. It was rather nice of him to remember me and call me up. I hoped he wouldn't be too sore about it.

It was getting along toward Easter.

"I've got to join a party of friends at Palm Beach for a few weeks—it won't be long, only it will seem long to me," he said.

FAILS TO WRITE

Even as he said it I was thinking that another Easter would find me at Palm Beach myself as Mrs. M. Thad Parsons and having a gay time along with the same party of his friends.

"It's just too bad, Thad," I said, "that you have to leave this snow and slush and freezing weather, and put in some miserable weeks down there in the warm sunshine."

"I had rather be with you, Katie," he assured me.

"All of which explains why you are going a thousand miles away from me, I suppose."

"No, dear girl, I simply have to keep my word and join my friends. I've a couple of golf tournaments on and I promised some chums to go tarpon fishing with them."

"Have a good time, Thad. I am going to Palm Beach myself some day," I declared, hoping he would take the hint.

"Of course you are—don't worry about that," he cried.

A whole week passed and no word. I read the Sunday papers for the society news, but I didn't see a word about Thad in the society gossip from Palm Beach.

Cora's husband invited me out over Sunday.

As I rode through Kew Gardens I wondered, idly, just where poor Peter might have his plumbing shop. Doubtless it would be a dusty, slate-colored little shop on some side street.

Cora's home was charming. She had a lot of ground and I could see that in summer it would be wonderful for her kiddies. She looked 10 years younger, so red cheeked and so happy. Her husband was a splendid sort, and from the furnishings and his swell car and everything I decided that he was pretty well off.

Cora asked me how I was getting on with Thad. I told her everything was lovely and that he would soon be back from Florida.

SHOCKING NEWS

"Don't rush me; Thad won't go to Palm Beach without me another Easter," I asured her.

"Did he say so, Katie?" Cora asked.

"Sure he did," I answered carelessly.

Cora was never one to nag. I am sure she realized that I annoyed and embarrassed me to have her continually asking when I expected to be formally engaged to Thad. I was glad she changed the subject.

I went back to the city that evening. Viola was evidently out with some boy friend. I was tired, and so I got into bed and sat up to read the Sunday papers. I had been too busy to look at them when I was out at Cora's.

I turned to the society pages. Surely there would be something about Thad and his crowd in the Palm Beach society gossip.

There was!

I stared at it—I read it over—the room seemed to swim around and around, and I crumpled upon the bed, sobbing. I didn't hear Viola come in, but I felt her arms about me and looked up.

"Katie, what it is—are you sick?" she cried.

I tried to turn away; I didn't want to speak; I didn't want to see any one—I didn't want to live!

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, beautiful little blonde dress model, has one credo—that a girl's chief aim in life should be to play around and have a good time. After the death of her father and the marriage of her widowed sister, she decides to play around more than ever. Having jilted Peter Thompson in the expectancy of marrying rich and aristocratic Thad Parsons, she loses her temper when Peter, making a second proposal, tells her that she is just human and wouldn't be the first girl to go wrong.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Patches

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

"Patches is all right, I says, so long's they're on your knees of your pants and not on th' seat," Ichabod Crater chuckled,
Mrs. Crater didn't smile,
Neither did Luther Crater, Ichabod's nephew.
They had heard him say this a great many times.

More than that, there were no patches on the knees of Ichabod Crater's overalls. There had not been since Luther could remember. Luther came there, an orphan, to live when he was 12.

At that moment there was a new, bright blue denim patch deftly placed on the wide seat of Ichabod Crater's overalls.

Ichabod Crater had a truck farm. It was quite a large farm. When Luther's father had died in the city Ichabod took Luther. The neighbors said that it was right kind of Ichabod and they didn't know he had so much of the milk of human kindness in him.

Mrs. Crater was pleased and told her husband that it was right down kind of him.

"The boy is old enough to work. His back's supple, he can help me with my truck garden. I won't have to let any of it now for others to grow things on, we can work it together."

"But Luther is jest a little boy, Ichabod."

"He's twelve, going on thuteen. He'll get strong and healthy out here off them dirty city streets. He'll live to thank me I learned him truck gardenin'."

There is a certain technique or knack to profitable truck gardening.

HUSKY YOUTH

Ichabod Crater knew this, knew all about it, knew soils and the tricks of planting. There was no question about that. He could sit on his light motor and run drills and plant with success. He could gauge the water needs and the fertilizer needs.

This irked him terribly, but it had to be done.

Ichabod Crater never would do this. He couldn't see himself crawling along in the dirt like a worm. That is why he had leased so much of his land.

But with a couple years' training Luther would be a valuable asset.

Luther was. In four years he was almost a man grown in size, husky, healthy and plodding, despite the fact that he was constantly overworked.

Ichabod, seeing days of leisure ahead, taught Luther all that he knew about various soils, fertilizers and the habits of the various vegetables. By doing this he believed that the boy would not only attend to the weeding, but would soon handle the entire crops, with now and then some youngsters hired by the hour at the time of picking some of the things, such as tomatoes, strawberries or bunching young carrots and radishes and scallions.

ADMIRES GARDEN

"Guess I do," Ichabod admitted.

Mr. Yardley was a rather wealthy city man who had bought a big acreage and dabbled in truck garden as some men have a big acreage and dabbled in breeds of dogs.

"I never saw anything like it, Mr. Crater," she said to Luther.

Luther turned rather red. He wasn't used to being called "Mr. Crater." His aunt called him "Luthie" and his uncle usually addressed him as "Say, you!"

"They're doing well," Luther admitted bashfully.

"I wish you'd come over and tell father and me what is the matter with our asparagus, please," Lottie Yardley pleaded.

At dinner Ichabod became curious.

"What was Yardley's gal hangin' 'round you for, a'takin' up your time?" he asked.

"She was admiring the asparagus."

"The asparagus or you?" Ichabod said sourly. But there was a faint tinge of anxiety in his voice.

"She's not interested in me," Luther said gruffly.

Luther was proud of the truck garden, proud of the asparagus, especially. This was the season when Ichabod had attended to the selling and had done nothing else. Luther had done it all.

But for some unknown reason he didn't tell his uncle that Lottie Yardley wanted him to come over and view her father's asparagus bed and give advice.

Luther viewed the asparagus bed and told him all about the lack of lime, the hard-packed soil and the need of less harsh fertilizers. He advised pulling all the radishes that were hard and woody and too lush, and mixing two loads of beach sand with the soil. He advised other things and went back to his work.

Mr. Yardley mentioned to Ichabod some time later that his nephew was a mighty clever chap when it came to growing garden truck.

"He don't know nothin' except weedin'. I done all th' plantin' and plannin' and I regulate things," Ichabod said. "Luther's good enough a work hard, but he ain't got no brains—alone he'd probably starve to death."

Mr. Yardley seemed surprised. No need to let people know how smart Luther was. He needed Luther. Life was just one round of comfort and laziness now.

The next year Ichabold Crater had a smash-up and was unable to get about for several months.

OFFERS SUGGESTION

The entire planting, fertilizing, cultivating of the truck garden was done, as had been for three years, by Luther.

Mr. Yardley's eyes were opened.

"Imagine that old fool," Yardley said to his daughter, Lottie, "trying to take the credit away from Luther. Now we know what we always thought, it's the boy Luther who does it all."

"He isn't a boy, dad, he's a man. He's most 21," Lottie said.

When Luther was 22 he discovered that he was terribly in love with Lottie Yardley. He thought it was hopeless. She wouldn't have him, anyway. And he didn't have much money. Ichabod paid him fairly well then for fear he would leave, but Luther could have commanded five times as much working as a superintendent for some big truck farmer.

He continued advising Lottie.

One day Lottie said, "You and I together, Luther, could make a fortune with a truck garden, put all of these 150 acres now in hayfields into gardens and think what we could do."

"There's a strip down there by the river of more than 15 acres that would grow wonderful celery," Luther told her.

"If we could work it out together, Luther. Why not?"

"You mean your father wants to hire me?"

"Have I got to tell you?"

Luther stared at her and turned red.

"Lottie, don't joke," he pleaded.

"Have you lost your tongue, Luther?"

"No, my heart."

So they went to Mr. Yardley about it.

He smiled at them and shook his head.

"Lottie's society friends are going to be shocked, but since Lottie wants you, Luther, I'm more than agreeable. She's got a man, and a clever one."

"And a handsome and dear one," Lottie added, making Luther blush again.

PROUD OF NEPHEW

Luther fixed up Ichabod's garden that week, working overtime.

At the end of the week when he came in for Saturday's dinner, old Ichabod was sitting in the cushioned easy chair on the front porch, smoking.

"Yup," he said, "I was tellin' that Yardley about my ideas on patches. I told him patches was all right if they was on th' knees instead of th' seat of your britches and he agreed."

"I'm going to marry Lottie Yardley next week," Luther said.

"Ha, that's a funny one—as if she'd look at you," Ichabod chuckled.

"We are going to be married Wednesday. I'm going to run the place, put the whole acreage in tillage."

"You are."

"I been easy with you but I'm boss, by godfrey. You're going to work right here," Ichabod said, and he gave Luther a stinging and unexpected blow on his jaw.

Luther grabbed him.

"You've been sitting down too much, Uncle Ike," Luther said, shaking him, "you haven't had patches on your knees in 10 years almost. Now listen to me—"

Luther sat down, yanked the surprised Uncle Ichabod across his lap, picked up a board and gave his uncle a spanking that made him howl and awoke the echoes.

"You'll rest easier on your knees, weeding," Luther said, "you won't sit down for a week. If you loaf then I'll come over and give you another spanking. There's nothing like patches on your knees."

Education, a National Duty

It Should Have Same Rank in Federal Government as Agriculture, Commerce and Labor.

Meeting this year in Los Angeles, the National Education Association again urges the creation of a federal Department of Education, with a secretary of education in the President's cabinet.

Among more than 20 other national organizations working today, with the Hearst newspapers, for the establishment of this new department, are the American Federation of Teachers, the American Federation of Labor, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Women's Trade Union League and the National League of Women Voters.

Upon public education the American people are spending every year more than $2,000,000,000.

In some states, one-fourth of the population is enrolled in public schools and some 30,000,000 Americans daily give the best part of their working hours to teaching or being taught in these schools.

There is an abundance of convincing testimony that owing to lack of educational research these schools are far less effective than they might be, ought to be, and would be if education were promoted by the federal government through a Department of Education.

That is the way the federal government promotes agriculture, commerce and labor.

The states retain control of agriculture, commerce and labor, but their promotion is assisted by the research work of the federal departments established for the purpose.

So it will be with education when public sentiment compels the Congress to put education on an equality with agriculture, commerce and labor.

When the new Congress convenes next December, the education bill will again be introduced. Now is the time to organize in its support.

It will provide for the co-ordination under the new department of all the many educational activities in which the federal government is now engaged.

It will provide for educational research which will assist the states in raising the standard of the education they give, and that under the Constitution, they will continue to control.

It will provide for an advisory council of state superintendents of education to co-operate with the secretary of education in the work of the new department.

It will authorize an appropriation for the conduct of the Department of Education along the lines that the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor are now conducted.

Instead of being a departure from, the establishment of a Department of Education will be in direct line with, the historical development of our system of government.

Under this system, the federal government is charged with the duty of promoting education upon which intelligent citizenship depends.

This obligation was earnestly emphasized by Washington, Adams and Jefferson, and the other founders of the government. They expressed their faith in "the necessity of education as the chief basis of their hope for the perpetuity of the American nation."

Next year the American people will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

No more appropriate tribute to his memory can be paid than the creation by the Congress of a Department of Education in the federal city with a home of its own, and a secretary of education in the cabinet of the President.

Busy Dr. Holland

At 82 the Director Emeritus of Carnegie Museum Is Still Hard at Work.

Happy the man who, like Dr. W. J. Holland, finds such pleasure in his work that he does not choose to retire.

Dr. Holland, who will be 83 next month, is director emeritus of Carnegie Museum. When the title "emeritus" is given a man, it generally means that he has been placed on the shelf. Not so with Dr. Holland.

In the current number of the "Annals of the Carnegie Museum," of which he is editor, we find the venerable scientist reporting on new species of butterflies, discussing plans for a new and revised edition of his "Butterfly Book," and chiding "recent writers who, if they persevere, will presently establish a genus for every species of butterfly on the continent of North America."

Value of the Zoo

Collections of Wild Animals Serve Useful Purpose, but Cruelty Should Be Guarded Against.

Jean K. Davis, of Mt. Lebanon, has written to the Sun-Telegraph to suggest that the Highland Park Zoo be abolished. She considers it cruel to cage wild animals, and doubts if the zoo accomplishes anything worth while.

In questioning the value of a zoo Mrs. Davis arrays herself against the great body of public opinion. It has been the consensus for years that collections of wild animals promote education by giving vivid lessons in zoology, by throwing light on literary references, and in other ways.

How often the lion is mentioned in the Bible! How much it adds to the interest of these passages to have seen a live lion!

Mrs. Davis is perfectly right in opposing cruelty. Councilman John M. Phillips agrees with her that some of the animals at the Highland Park Zoo are not humanely treated, and proposes that they be removed to larger ranges in the North and South County Parks—which is not a bad idea if adequate provision cannot be made for them at Highland Park.

The Time When—

Wonder what the present Young Moderns would think (or DO they think?) if they could remember the time—

* * *

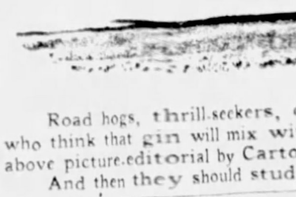
* * *

When a virtuous and impeccable lady, who got a divorce from her "otherwise" husband was cut dead by all her friends, and only spoken of in whispers as "that divorced woman."



* * *

When a girl who put a touch of rouge on her cheeks was called "a painted woman," and considered "fast." And if she added lip-rouge and the mark of a black eyebrow pencil—oooh, la, la!

* * *

When, if a woman lunched on a cracker and a cup of tea, it was not in order to save her figure, but in order to save her pocketbook.

* * *

When a popular actress had all New York and London buzzing, because she appeared on the stage in—what do you think?—PAJAMAS! PINK ones!

* * *

When a leg was blushingly called a "limb," and if you showed so much as three inches of a neat ankle, all the men were thrilled, and all the women horrified.

* * *

* * *

When a woman's stocking was called "The Lisle-Thread Bank," because she tucked her money in it—and you said THAT with a wink.

* * *

When "IT" was called personal magnetism, and nobody had ever heard the word "sex-appeal."

* * *

When no gentleman (much less any lady) carried a pocket-flask. And a girl who wanted to smoke a cigaret "on a dare" got her brother to buy one for her, and puffed it out of the window with her door locked.

* * *

When the rustle of a silk petticoat under a trailing skirt was a sign of wealth and elegance—and a daring bit of coquetry. And only brides and bridesmaids wore silk stockings.

* * *

When Mrs. Fiske starred in a very, VERY sophisticated play (oh, so spicy!) called "The New Yorkers," in which the startling and shocking feature was that two women exchanged husbands via the divorce mill.

* * *

* * *

When there were only two kinds of women: ladies—and "the other kind." And two kinds of men—eligible and ineligible.

* * *

When lovers guiltily "held hands"—and got a kick out of it. Quaint old pre-war days! Of course YOU don't remember them—and you wouldn't ADMIT it, if you did!

Was Francis Galton Ideal Man of Science?

By Archibald Henderson

To the famous Beatrice Webb, who refuses to share the title with her husband, Sidney Webb, now Lord Passfield, the ideal man of science was not Huxley or Tyndall, Hooker or Lubbock, but Francis Galton. She describes Galton as follows: That tall figure with its attitude of perfect physical and mental poise—the clean-shaven face, the thin, compressed mouth with its enigmatical smile; the long upper lip and firm chin, and, as if presiding over the whole personality of the man, the prominent dark eyebrows from beneath which gleamed, with penetrating humor, contemplative gray eyes . . . The most relevant of Galton's many gifts was the unique contribution of three separate and distinct processes of the intellect; a continuous curiosity about, and rapid apprehension of, individual facts, whether common or uncommon; the faculty for ingenious trains of reasoning, and, more admirable than either of them, because the talent was wholly beyond my reach, the capacity for correcting and verifying his own hypotheses, by the statistical handling of masses of data, whether collected by himself or supplied by other students of the problem."

Two major contributions to science will always stand associated with his name for all time. The first is a technical process, which required innumerable experiments and vast research: identification by means of fingerprints. The other is one of the greatest biological and sociological problems of this or of any age; eugenics, the science of human breeding to individual and race improvement.

During the period from 1887 to 1895 the study of fingerprints occupied the major portion of Galton's attention. Galton was not the first man to use fingerprints for administration purposes. This was Sir William Herschel, who actually used them in India as early as 1858. Karl Pearson, in his monumental biography of Galton, effectively disposes of the claims of Dr. Faulds, who chose to belittle the work of Herschel and Galton. Certain it is that from Galton can never be taken the credit for building the foundation upon which all subsequent work on fingerprints has been based, and particularly that part of it involving the use of fingerprints in criminal identification.

It is customary for the man-in-the-street to give the credit for this latter and more important phase of the work to the French criminologist, Bertillon. But it is a fact that Galton introduced Bertillon to the method; and this is acknowledged by Bertillon himself in a letter written in 1891. It is Pearson who makes the definitive statement: Finger-printing as a science and finger-printing as an art are both alike the products of Galton's insight, ingenuity and tireless activity; the attempts to belittle the credit due to him can only spring from those who for their own purposes choose to ignore the literature on the subject.

Galton is the father of the science of eugenics, a science of supreme importance, but still in its infancy. Galton was never a crusader for eugenics; he was always the sane, careful scientific investigator. He was ever appalled by some of the consequences of the science he had brought into being. In regard to the work of the Eugenics Laboratory, which he founded in 1907 and endowed in his will, Galton said just three months before his death: "I hold it to be thoroughly scientific and most valuable, and I rejoice that I was its founder."

Isn't It So?

The pleasure of life is not according to the work or place, but according to the man who lives it.

A woman sometimes says one thing and means another, but a politician says two or three things and means nothing.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Disillusioned? Can't trust anyone any more—and miserable because you can't? And perhaps, like many another, you wonder how you can regain your "lost faith in humanity."

Don't try to regain it. A faith that can be lost isn't worth regaining. If you had really believed in humanity, that belief could not have been broken. But, as a matter of fact, you never had any real faith in humanity.

YOU ONLY HAD FAITH IN YOUR OWN TIDY, TIGHT CONCEPTION OF HUMANITY . . .

FAITH IN CERTAIN SET, SENTIMENTAL IDEALS AND STANDARDS WHICH APPEALED TO YOU.

And why did you have those ideals and standards? Did you have them because they fitted life, because they expressed human nature, in general? No, you didn't. You had them because they fitted YOU . . . because they expressed YOU.

Chances are, you established your code when you were still quite young . . . 16, 17, 20 . . . thinking seriously about life for the first time. But you didn't, as yet, know real life. You only knew life as you saw it through young, untried eyes. And you didn't know human nature. You only knew your own young, untested nature. So the ideals you selected—while very pretty and polite—had little relationship to the world of reality. But, with youthful stubbornness and conceit, you vowed you'd make them work.

THOSE NOTIONS WERE WHAT YOU CALLED YOUR "FAITH IN HUMANITY." THEY WERE ONLY FAITH IN YOURSELF.

Then you went out into life and the inevitable happened. You found that human beings wouldn't fit into your pretty picture and that they didn't give a hoot for your fine ideals. Then what did you do? Did you try to broaden your understanding and tolerance? Did you try to adjust yourself to a more complicated scheme of things and construct a working compromise? No, you didn't. When you found that people wouldn't follow your plan, you "lost faith in them" . . . you decided that society was rank and you went off pouting and refused to play.

That wasn't humanity's fault. That was the fault of your own pee-wee ideas and peevish disposition. It wasn't your "faith" that was hurt—it was your egotism.

YOU WERE MAD BECAUSE YOU COULDN'T HAVE EVERYTHING YOUR OWN WAY.

Don't try to regain a "faith" like that . . . it would be as silly as trying to regain your baby teeth. Thank heaven you've lost it and set to work to build a REAL FAITH in human beings.

Take human beings as they really are—not as you'd like them to be. Take them as God made them—mostly mud, but with a little spark of His divine essence.

Disorderly, untidy, unreliable, impulsive, selfish, cruel, contrary as old heck? Of course they are. So is every growing thing. But in spite of that . . . perhaps, BECAUSE of that . . . humanity is wonderful. For side by side with our ugliness and cowardice and cruelty and stupidity, there is beauty and courage and tenderness and the promise of intelligence that shall at last set man free.

Search for that promise in every man . . . recognize it . . . have faith in it. THAT faith can never be lost, for each day will reveal new reason for it. Only the faith you build on your own vain ignorance can be broken. And it should be.

Hands Off the Navy

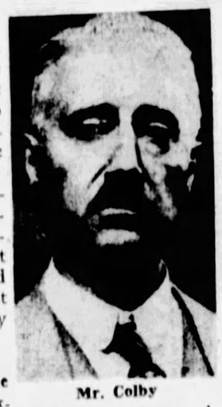
Finest of American Institutions Does Not Deserve to Suffer Slice in Appropriations.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

THERE are hopeful signs throughout the country that the disposition of the administration at Washington to skimp appropriations for the upkeep of the Army and the Navy is viewed with general disfavor, and in fact, a spreading resentment.

This is especially true as to the Navy.

IT REALLY SEEMS AS THOUGH THE NAVY HAD AT LAST FOUND ITS PLACE—ITS RIGHTFUL PLACE, WHICH IS IN THE HEARTS OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. They are not content that it should be treated as a mere item in the nation's balance sheet, a prey to the petty science of coin accountancy, to be shaven and sliced to an irreducible minimum, and subordinated to the pork-barrel raids of the politicians.



Mr. Colby

No! The NAVY is OUR NAVY—SUPERB IN HISTORY, AND TODAY—ADMIRABLE AND SPLENDID. It is the beautiful embodiment of our finest resolves as a nation, and the effective instrument of the most gallant and heroic impulses that sway us as a people

WHO can read the history of the American Navy without a quickening of the pulse and a mounting pride—from the early days when the Rhode Island Legislature fitted up two tiny armed vessels in 1772 to drive Sir James Wallace and his "obnoxious" English frigate out of Narragansett Bay, down to the momentous hour in recent history when we sent our majestic fleet under an American admiral, to the support of the Allied navies in the North Sea?

Even in the early days, our little Navy which performed such indispensable service in protecting our coasts and guarding us from foreign insult, had its detractors and enemies at home. There were men in Congress at the beginning of the last century, like the South Carolinian Williams, who denounced the Navy "as a curse to the country" and declared that he would "go a good deal farther to see it burned than to extinguish the fire."

Such men, unhappily, we have had with us always. Oliver Wendell Holmes in his stirring poem on "Old Ironsides" refers to citizens of this type as "those harpies of the shore." But I am thankful to say that they have been a negligible fraction of our people.

THE NATION AS A WHOLE LOVES ITS NAVY.

It cherishes the names of its great commanders. There are no names in our history surer to live than the names of John Paul Jones, Hull, Preble, Decatur, Porter, Farragut, Perry, Dewey—to mention only a few of the illustrious figures of the past that shed luster and glory upon our naval history.

And today—THE NAVY IS ABOUT THE FINEST OF AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS.

IT is a great school for our youth. It teaches them the rules of physical well-being, and not only the habit of work, but the secret of effective teamwork.

It implants in them sportsmanlike standards of life and conduct, which are tested and confirmed by the incessant competitions which are the life of a ship, and by the competitive rivalries between ships and fleets.

And it is a severe training. Its men must make good if they are to survive in the service.

In this age, when almost everything with an element in it of the heroic or of self-sacrifice seems to be regarded ironically and viewed even contemptuously, there is something beyond price in the honorable traditions of the Navy.

THERE ARE SOME THINGS WHICH ECONOMY DEFILES AND THE NAVY IS ONE.

ON THE ATLANTIC

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, July 13.—Through a cabin porthole the cyclorama of lights that is New York's night skyline is fading. The great liner is shivering into the first ocean swells and there isn't anything I would not give to be back in my apartment. In 19 crossings I invariably have this reaction.

My travel thrills are entirely anticipatory. In the actual progress of journey I'm always wondering why I came. Yet by tomorrow I'll likely be planning a jaunt to Hawaii this winter. This trip might be an uncomfortable one had I been negligent in a matter of tipping several years ago.

In disembarking from the liner Paris I forgot the customary pourbois for Tatibouet, a steward who had served me well. The next day I sent a fair fee along with an extra gratuity for my carelessness by special messenger. Tonight I found Tatibouet had been transferred to the Ile de France.

And among the cabins he attends is 298 A, which we occupy. Imagine a rough crossing with a steward one had not tipped! I saw our takeoff from New York tonight through the eager and excited eyes of Ray Long, Jr., aged 7, who accompanied by his mother is making his first voyage.

He is to summer in the south of France, where by fall he will be speaking French like a native as children do while we grown-ups struggle for years to make the name of our Paris hotels understandable to taxi drivers. Our cabin before the leave-taking became somewhat a miniature hall of notables.

Many had come to bid bon voyage to others but dropped in en passant. Among them were Roy and Peg Howard, Leon Gordon, Vincent Lopez, Frank Mason, Clara Bell Walsh, and, of course, the ubiquitous ship scribe, Harry Acton. I never leave a cabin until a boat sails due to a horrible phobia I'll rush off it.

Billy, the Boston, is a fellow voyager and a complacent one. Already he is under a bed with his head between his paws sound asleep. Without checking up I should say it is his seventh trip. If outward appearances are indicative, a sea voyage means nothing in his life. Just a long sleep.

* * *

Rainbow, the Sealyham, was to come along but at the last moment we had misgivings. He is a puppy, sensitive and easily frightened. And it was decided he would be better off in the affectionate atmosphere he enjoys at home. He was too engrossed in tearing up a cardboard box to come to the door and see us depart anyway.

* * *

Among the books I hope to read as we plough merrily along are: "The Moonstone," by Wilkie Collins; "The Caliph of Bagdad," a life of O. Henry; "Flamenco," and for a shudderer, "The Night of Fear," which I snatched from a book stall at the pier. Nobody ever traveled with the right amount of reading. There is always too much or too little. With my flair for the unusual I'm hoping my reading will come out just right. Finish the last paragraph of the last book, look up from the deck chair and there is land. Or as we ancient mariners scream, "Land ho!"

* * *

Due to customary indecision, I had only five hours between making up my mind to sail and actual sailing time. In the fever of packing I was reminded that I nearly always neglect some important article of shaving. So forewarned, I brought along three safety razors, an assortment of shaving creams, lotions, etc. I used similar precautions in other accessories such as two corpses, two pocket lighters and the like. My wife calls out from the baggage space just now there is only one little thing I neglected—the key to my traveling bag.

* * *

Under a little glass at my bedside is a printed card: "Sonnez: Une fois pour le garcon. Deux fois pour la femme de chambre." And some wag has written underneath it: "And when that doesn't bring them, try screaming."

* * *

In strange hotels I always inspect pictures on the wall, hoping that I will not see a print of The Stag at Bay or a still-life bowl of fruit. The art exhibit in this cabin is highly modernistic. Full face it suggests a clump of cacti about to skip a rope; turned upside down it is Charles Hanson Towne about to cry. The title is "El Relaa" — which naturally clears up everything. One of the Relaa boys.
